Dad Sees His Quads—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Zavada of Latrobe, Pa., amaze their 5-year-old son, Larry, as they tell him (at left) he is to expect four new additions to the family . . . this before Mrs. Zavada, 26, went to the hospital, where her four babies were born Sunday. The quads, "doing just fine" today, are viewed by their father (right) as doctors place them in an incubator. The foursome, born by Caesarean section, consist of three girls and a boy. Rockefeller Bride's Dad Tells of Life

By ARTHUR T. MOORE

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 16 (INS) — By a strange twist of fate and stern Russian law, Mrs. Eva Paulekas Rockefeller returned to the United States from Lithuania to become the "Cinderella Girl" of the year, her father disclosed today.

Her coal miner father, Julius Paulekas, 60, said that in 1920, after saving several thousand dollars, he told his wife they were going back to Lithuania, adding:

"So one day we take our saved money, and with the two babies (Eva and Isobel) we go to New York and get ship for Lithuania. Eva was 4-year-old then.

"We were all very happy to return to the old country. My wife and I were both born there and had many friends. We go to a farm at Kalvaryia. I buy farm for $3000. We all worked on farm."

Paulekas said he planned to stay in Lithuania with his family.

"But things weren't so good." Paulekas said. "That was bad situation then. The country was under Russian rule. I no like it too good.

Julius Paulekas

"I pay a fine of $50 for getting into trouble with the authorities," the aging coal miner added. I say to myself: "That's not going on in America."

When asked why he didn't like his native land, Paulekas continued:

"It all started when one day they told me I had to help guard the town during the night. It was a job of walking the streets at night and protecting from robbers."

"I told my family I no like it now in Lithuania. So I sell my farm for $2000."

He said he and his family returned to the United States in 1924. He added:

"I got a job in Chicago as fireman. We got a four-room house on South Side. Then we were very happy. Eva started to school. She was a very good girl and smart, too."

He said that his trouble with his wife, now Mrs. Peter Neveckas of Lowell, Ind., started in November, 1925. He asserted:

"My wife leaves me and refused to come back. She went to a sister's house to live with the two girls. When she left she only leave me one table, stove, spoon and chair. I no could live like that. I tell her to come back home or I leave and go to relatives in Washington, Pa."

Paulekas said things then got very bad for him and in 1936 a government agent came to him in Washington. The agent told Paulekas that he was illegally in the U. S. and would have to get out.

"So I go back to Lithuania again for one year. I no want to stay there. I no like it and want to come to America.

Paulekas said he appealed to the American consul and told him he wanted to be an American citizen.

He said after a year's wait, the American consul gave him papers to come to America.

Paulekas became an American citizen in 1944.

2-Day Thaw Weatherman's Good Word

Greater Boston appeared due today for a two-day thaw, as the mercury began rising from a night minimum of 18 degrees to a predicted maximum above 40, with some sunshine but increasing high cloudiness during the day.

Tonight temperatures were not expected to drop below the 34-degree point, and should rise again tomorrow into the lower 50's, according to the weather bureau experts.

The warm spell will make further inroads on the accumulated snow piles in the outlying districts, and by Wednesday some streets and highways should begin to return to normalcy. The weatherman warned of another cold spell beginning tomorrow night, which may be accompanied by snow flurries in some sections.

Sen. Thomas Irked By Grain Probers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) —Snator Elmer Thomas told senators investigating grain and cotton speculation today he doesn't want to be bothered any more about his private activities.

The Oklahoma Democrat, who has admitted speculating on commodity markets, wrote a Senate appropriations sub committee that that applies, too, toh is assistants.

If he or they are bothered, he said, "then I shall consider such activity unjustified and unwarranted attacks upon myself and my assistants."

Purse Snatcher Gets Pumpkin Pie in Face

DETROIT, Feb. 16 (AP)—Police are looking for a pie-faced bandit. The man tried to snatch Mrs. Charlotte Cloar's purse from under her left arm Sunday as she walked along a street. Mrs. Cloar swung with her right, in which she was carrying a pumpkin pie.

"Whoo," gasped the bandit, and ran.

Life of 'Modern Cinderella'

Bobo Smart, Could Write When Only 3

By CHARLES FINSTON

Copyright, 1948, by the Chicago Herald-American

Twenty-three years ago, in the "back of the yards" district of Chicago, an 8-year-old tow-headed girl fought with the boys, her blue eyes flashing through a dirt-streaked face. She had just returned from a long visit in Lithuania and spoke little English. She was Jievute Paulekiute.

At the same time in New York's swank Park ave., a spic and span youth of 13 was being groomed in the austere ways of the nation's top society and business circles, a member of the world's richest family. He was Winthrop Rockefeller.

Little did the girl in Chicago, who thought nothing of joining a gang of boys in a stone-throwing battle, even dream her path would cross that of the nation's wealthiest scion in the top romance of the century.

FROM PEASANT STOCK

This is the life story of Jievute (whose name translated literally is "Sweet Little Eva"), whose parents migrated to the United States from remote peasant areas of Lithuania at the turn of the century and saw the "golden door" opened for their daughter.

Eva's vivacious beauty and charm are symbolic today of waiting opportunity in an unfettered democracy.

Eva's father, Jievue or Julius, migrated from the village of Panara in 1907 to the Pennsylvania coal fields. Her mother, now Mrs. Eva Navackas, arrived with three sisters, all orphans, in 1913, from the town of Kelvarija.

Julius, then 20, was urged to come to America by his father, Anthony, who left his farm in 1903 for a miner's job in Cherry Valley, Pa.

WORKED IN MINE

Julius earned $2.36 a day with a pick and shovel, working underground six days a week.

After seven years, Julius felt it was time to marry. Through a friend he met a "real nice" Lithuanian girl in Noblestown, Pa. (an Allegheny County mining patch) one Sunday, his day off.

Julius, who was found in the Ontario, Pa. mine of the Hillman Coal and Coke Co. picked up the story thus:

"She looked pretty nice to me. I asked if I could have regular dates with her and for about a year I travelled 10 miles from Cherry Patch mine to Noblestown to see my girl.

"I worked hard until Saturday, then dressed up nice and went to se my sweetheart. After one year of this, I found I was losing weight, so I asked her to marry me."

MARRIED IN 1915

Julius said the marriage took place in 1915, when they took a train to reach St. Casimir Catholic Church in Pittsburgh.

"It was not a big wedding," Julius said. "But we had a big party in Noblestown, with a keg

JACK LEWIS
Co-op Holdup Suspect

Pleads Not Guilty in Co-Op Holdup

Jack Lewis, 48, of Carver st., South End, arrested last week in a well-laid police trap in a South End hotel, pleaded not guilty in East Cambridge court today to robbery charges in the $50,000 smoke-bomb hoidup of the Harvard Co-operative store last Jan. 9.

Lewis, who was stricken ill during the weekend and attended by Dr. Edward Fleming, Cambridge city physician, took a dose of medicine today as he sat in the dock during his arraignment before Judge Arthur P. Stone.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Lyman C. Sprague, who has been handling the investigation of the holdup for Dist. Atty. George E. Thompson, appeared in court with State Dect. Lt. Daniel I. Murphy and Lt. Joseph D. Breen of the Cambridge police.

Sprague asked Judge Stone to continue the case to March 3 and set bail at $60,00. When Atty. Francis Juggins, counsel for Lewis, said he had no objection, Judge Stone granted the request and the defendant was returned to the East Cambridge jail.

Lewis, whose record dates back to 1915, was the second man to be arrested in the investigation of the daring holdup. Previously, Nicholas Mavrides, Washington st., Wrentham, Cambridge night club operator, was arrested and ordered held in a total of $120,000 bail.

As a result of the arrest of Lewis, investigators predicted a speedy roundup of the rest of the holdup gang.

Lt. Breen revealed that Lewis had been under constant surveillance while in New York recently and that the trap was sprung for him when he returned to Boston last week.

When he returned to the South End hotel, detectives followed him upstairs to his room, where other detectives were waiting, and placed him under arrest.

He was removed to the Warren ave. station and questioned, later being transferred to Cambridge headquarters.

Slain Girl Balked At Triangle Role

Beatrice Blanchard was slain in brutal fashion because she refused to become the "other woman" in a romantic triangle with a young bridegroom who could not forget his ill-starred romance with the 17-year-old Salem schoolgirl. This was announced today by authorities, who disclosed that the pretty brunette baby-sitter had lived in terror of Laurence J. Reddy, 21, of Mason st., Salem, for five months before he allegedly hacked and bludgeoned her to death.

BEATRICE BLANCHARD, 17-YR.-OLD SALEM BABY SITTER
Former Suitor Held in Her Fiendish Slaying

That she had good reason for fear was revealed by Salem police, who said Reddy slugged a Peabody woman unconscious six months ago, impairing the sight of one eye to such an extent he is still under court order to pay weekly installments for her medical bills.

Reddy was held without bail today after pleading not guilty in Salem district court to a first degree murder charge in connection with the 17-year-old babysitter's death.

Judge George B. Sears continued the case to March 12 at the request of defense counsel, James E. Tobin, who is Salem's postmaster.

Neither his bride of four months, Mrs. June Moran Reddy, 19, nor the parents of the slain Blanchard girl, were in court. The young bride, an expectant mother, was in seclusion at the home of friends.

Reddy had been calm in his police cell and his demeanor in court was the same. He gave the spectators a sweeping, impassive glance, then concentrated his attention on the brief proceedings.

QUOTE CONFESSION

His signed confession of the slaying of his Mason st. neighbor and former girl friend in a house in Loring ave., Salem, was quoted in effect by police as follows:

"I was drinking last Saturday from 3 in the afternoon until about 7:30.

"At some time in this period I telephoned Beatrice's home, and her brother told me she was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester H. Oppenheim in Loring ave.

"I hired a taxi and the driver let me out near the house close to the Swampscott boundary. I went to the house where Beatrice was working as a baby sitter and she opened the door and let me in.

"We sat in the front room for a few minutes. We talked about ourselves and about my marriage and us. I sat in a chair and she sat on the couch. I smoked at least one cigaret.

"During the conversation she kidded me about my marriage and she made wisecracks and said things. I slapped her."

At this point, detectives said, he became hazy about the assault on Beatrice and the running slugfest that took in all three lower rooms of the Oppenheim house while the baby, James Oppenheim, 2, slept in his crib on a second floor bedroom.

SKULL CRUSHED

An examination showed the girl's skull was crushed, with at least 19 stab and slash wounds about the head, face and neck. Police believe the weapons included a flatiron, the telephone receiver, a stone knife sharpener and two kitchen knives.

He admitted that, "I struck her," but when pressed for details he claimed he did not remember the slaying.

"If you say a a knife and a flatiron were used, then I used them," police quoted him.

The confession continues:

"I left the house and walked all of three miles to my house in Mason st., a few doors from her home. I changed all my clothing, even my underwear, and then about 11 o'clock I went to a house party in another part of Salem.

"There I joined my bride and

Cardinal Pignatelli, Prelates' Dean, Dies

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 16 (AP)—Gennaro Cardinal Granito Pignatelli di Belmonte, 96, second only to Pope Pius XII in the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church, died today. Cardinal Pignatelli, who was a prince of the Italian aristocracy as well as a prince of the church, expired at 10:13 a. m. in his simply furnished apartment in the historic Vatican church of Santa Martha.

He had known five popes in his long life and had been an intimate of the present pontiff and his predecessor. He had been dean of the College of Cardinals for nearly 18 years.

Francesco, Cardinal Marchetti-Selvaggiani, 76, bishop of Frascati, vicar general of Rome, has been a cardinal since June 30, 1930.

Vatican authorities, however said there was some doubt as to whether the state of his health would permit him to assume actively the duties of dean of the College of Cardinals. He was reported suffering an illness affecting his legs.

These informants said it was possible Enrico, Cardinal Sibilia, 87, Bishop of Sabino and Poggio Mirteto and next in order of precedence, might succeed Cardinal Pignatelli as dean. Cardinal Sibilia has been a prince of the church since Dec. 16, 1935.

Persons present at the deathbed said Cardinal Pignatelli emerged from coma briefly early this morning while Msgr. Enrico Dante, prefect of ceremonies, was at his side. Jokingly, he asked Msgr. Dante if he had come to "make arrangements for my burial."

His death reduced the membership of the College of Cardinals to 60. Its full strength is 70.

Nab High Official In CIO as Alien Red

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Federal agents today arrested Ferdinand Christafer Smith, national secretary of the CIO National Maritime Union, as an alien Communist.

Smith, a native of Jamaica, West Indies, was removed to Ellis Island without bond for deportation proceedings.

The arrest was made by immigration officials and FBI agents on a warrant charging he entered the country without a visa, and had been before and after his entry, "a member of an organization advocating the overthrow of the government of the United States by force and violence."

Report Jinnah to Quit, But His Aide Denies It

LAHORE, Feb. 16 (INS)—The Lahore Civil and Military Gazette said today that Mohammed Ali Jinnah, Governor General of Pakistan, will soon retire because of poor health.

Jinnah, the newspaper said, will be succeeded by the Nawab of Bhopal, a princely state in central India which has joined the Indian Union.

Reports that Jinnah is in ill health and plans to retire were termed "trash" by Jinnah's secretay, Syed Mohammed Yusuf, in Karachi.

BABY CENTER OF CUSTODY FIGHT—Mrs. Oscar Murray (left), begins a fight in San Francisco court today in an attempt to regain custody of her 22-months-old daughter, Cheryl Darline, from the child's adopted mother, Mrs. Mary Lightner. Mrs. Murray, financially stranded, entered a West Coast hospital under Mrs. Lightner's name and gave birth to the girl. She then signed the baby over to the Lightners. They will battle to keep the child. International News Soundphoto

Ike Urges UMT To Guard Against Third World War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (INS) — Gen. Eisenhower warned today America's security will be in dire danger if western Europe goes Communistic and urged the United States strengthen her weak fighting arm through universal military training and other measures.

Eisenhower said the U. S. must remain the firm champion of those who seek to lead their own lives in peace with their neighbors. He said America's task is to convince any possible aggressor that he can chose war only at the risk of his own destruction.

But, in his 12,000 word final report to Army Secretary Royall, the retired chief of staff grimly said that the global distribution of the Army leaves it weak in every sector and called for immediate action to remedy the weakness.

The general bluntly urged Congress to settle the question of universal military training without further delay as a step toward this end.

NOT OFFENSIVE FORCE

Eisenhower wrote:

"By no stretch of the facts can the United States Army, as it is now manned, deployed and engaged, be considered an offensive force.

"It is not ready to respond to an emergency call because its global distribution not only leaves it weak in every sector but prevents the concentration of anything beyond the merest handful for possible tactical use."

The General added that this virtually complete dispersion of our ground strength cannot be permitted to continue over any considerable period, because there are elements in both the world situation and our own strategic position that demand the constant availability of respectable land forces.

Referring to the spread of Communism, the ertired chief of state who directed the Allied war against Germany and Italy said:

"Our traditional friends in western Europe are in weak condition and some are threatened with strangulation by a militant political party whose obvious purpose is to promote chaos and insurrection for the advantage of an alien ideology.

"Were those countries to give up the good fight for our common heritage of liberty, and become the pawns of totalitarianism, America's securtiy would be in dire danger."

If this happens, Eisenhower said:

"We would find ourselves facing across narrowing ocean and arctic barriers, a despotic colossus spread over and beyond the combined eurasian territories of the Roman Empire, the Persia of antiquity, the Germanic kings and the Mongol Kahns."

NO ASSURANCE OF PEACE

The General cited present U. S. foreign policy in such critical areas as the Mediterranean as a means of combatting Communism. He said:

"If this oldest corridor between the East and West were walled up, the effects would be instant and catastrophic."

Eisenhower said there is no real assurance of peace but indicated that the atom bomb, U. S. industrial production, the United Nations and our stout ties with other countries would contribute toward world stability and against the return of war.

He warned no American frontier or inland city can be considered immune from attack because major nations, in the future, will be armed with weapons of terrifying destructive power . . .A series of lightning blows might conceively end a future war at its outset.

Invalid Mother Guarded at Fire

An elderly invalid and her son remained in their first-floor apartment under the watchful eyes of a fireman today when a two-alarm fire on the top floor of a three-story brick building in Washington st., Dorchester, drove four persons to the street.

Morton Bornstein sat by the side of his mother, Mrs. Betty Bornstein, 74, while the blaze did $4500 damage to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dagley and their two children, Louis, 22, and Eileen, 18. The second floor was unoccupied.

District Chief Lee Driscoll said the blaze started from oil that spilled from a broken five-gallon jug supplying the kitchen stove.

Sears, Roebuck Head Flies Here

Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board of directors, and a group of top executives of Sears, Roebuck & Co. arrived at Logan Airport today for a three-day inspection visit to New England plants of the company.

Crowdus Baker, general manager of the Boston mail order plant, and other local officials were on hand to greet the general's private plane, which flew here from Philadelphia.

Following inspection of the Boston store, the party will take off tomorrow, accompanied by Gordon B. Hattersley, vice-president in charge of the eastern territory, for a two-day trip to Presque Isle and Portland. On Wednesday the group plans visits to Sears stores in Bangor, Me., and Concord, N. H.

Busch Heiress to Wed U. S. Aide In Germany

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16 (AP)—Miss Wilhelmina Busch, 64, heiress to the Busch brewery millions, will be married next Sunday to Sam E. Woods, U. S. general consul to Munich, Germany, the Globe-Democrat said.

The wedding will take place at Miss Busch's palatial Bavarian estate near Munich, the newspaper said, quoting Mrs. Edna Busch Greenough of New York City, sister of Miss Busch.

UMT Urged By War Parents

A resolution urging immediate anactment of the Universal Military Training bill, adopted by the War Parents of America, Inc., was forwarded to Congress today by Rev. Irving J. Fletcher, Quincy, president of the organization.

Father of a World War II veteran, the minister recalled the needless casualties in both world conflicts due to insufficient training, and said:

"We can't let that happen again. Congress should be the first government body to take cognizance of that."

Indirectly, the minister was referring to the status of the UMT bill, stalled in the House rules committee for many weeks without any indication when it will be reported out for a vote on the House floor.

ADDS TO SECURITY

"Our organization, the War Parents of America, Inc., is strongly in favor of UMT, as well as the other security measures reported to the President by the Compton committee.

"UMT is most vital, especially at this time, to insure national security and world peace.

"My son, who served in the last war, has repeatedly said that if it were not for the training he received in the National Guard, prior to entering the armed services, he could not have stood the hardships of warfare and would not have been able to handle himself from a military standpoint.

VALUABLE TO YOUTH

"That training was invaluable to him. The same would apply to the youth of our nation in the event of any future trouble.

"I hope—rather, I urge Congress to take action at this session."

The minister's hope was another reflection of the feelings of thousands of Bay State residents who have already sent wires, telegrams and the coupon appearing on this page to the Massachusetts delegation in Congress.

Similar communications have been sent in large numbers to Rep. Leo E. Allen, chairman of the House rules committee urging him and his colleagues to report the UMT bill out.

Joseph Grew Hits UMT Bill Delay

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, charged today that the Republican leadership in Congress was assuming the responsibility for the "downfall of a free nation" by its unwillingness to place the question of universal military training before the House.

Speaking at the opening of a three-day session of the United States Conference of Mayors, attended by 400 mayors and city officials, at the Waldof-Astoria Hotel, Grew scored the "high-handed" attitude of the House rules committee and its Republican leadership.

Former Ambassador Grew recalled the words of Washington to the Congress in 1790 in which the first President declared:

"To be prepared for war is the most effectual means of preserving peace."

Newest Quads, Mother All Reported 'Doing Fine'

LATROBE, Pa., Feb. 16 (AP)—The Zavada quadruplets—three girls and a boy whose coming was forecast by X-ray last November—entered their second day of life today, apparently "doing just fine."

The babies, not expected until April, were delivered by Caesarean section yesterday to Mrs. Barbara Wagner Zavada, 26, wife of a metal works inspector.

The four infants, weighing a total of 13½ pounds, were born within five minutes while their father, Andrew, 35, mopped his brow in the waiting room of the Latrobe General Hospital.

Dr. J. Wiley Hartman, chief obstetrician, who attended Mrs. Zavada aided by four other doctors, said the boy was delivered first, just 15 minutes after Mrs. Zavada had been wheeled into the operating room.

A half-hour after the babies' birth, Rev. Theodore Hodobay of St. Mary's Greek Catholic Church came to the hospital to christen the children John Michael, Bernadette Elizabeth, Barbara Rose and Anna Mary.

The only disappointed person in Latrobe today apparently was 5-year-old Larry Dale McBryer, Mrs. Zavada's son by a previous marriage, who had expected his mother to bring him two brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Zavada's first husband, Harold McBryer, was killed in the Normandy invasion in 1944. She married Zavada in August, 1946.

Zavada, who makes $1.20 an hour as an inspector for the Latrobe Die Casting Co., said he wasn't worried about supporting his enlarged family.

"Other people have been in the same situation and they made out okay. I will, too," he said.

The entire staff of the Latrobe hospital was mobilized for the event, the biggest ever to have happened in this western Pennsylvania town of 12,000.

Nurses hurried the new born infants to waiting incubators in a brightly lit cubicle a few doors away from the delivery room.

"I carried out the first boy and the last girl," said Nurse Girda Townsend. "It was my first experience with quadruplets—and I hope the last."

Mrs. Zavada's parents were jubilant.

"I wanted four girls and I got almost what I wanted," grinned grandfather Ralph Wagner, 59.

His wife, Rose, 52, chimed in:

"Well, I wanted the boy."

Westwood Man Held in Murder

Robert W. Vinson, 26, Dover rd., Westwood, odd-jobs laborer, pleaded not guilty in Walpole District Court today to a charge of murder of Mrs. Mildred Rafuse Clifford, 42, Old Post rd., Walpole, whose scantily-clad body was found in the driveway of her home the morning of Feb. 1.

Judge Herbert D. Robinson held Vinson without bail for the April session of the Norfolk County grand jury after testimony by four government witnesses. Police Sgt. Timothy Cullinane testified he found blood-stained clothing in a closet of Vinson's home.

Mrs. Clifford, twice divorced, was the mother of three children.

2 Missing New Bedford Fishing Vessels Found

Object of a two-day air and sea search, the New Bedford fishing vessels Sea Ranger and Whaler were located today approximately 70 miles apart some 100 miles distant from Highland Light, Cape Cod, by a Coast Guard patrol plane from the Quonset, R. I., Air Station.

The cutter Cowslip took the Sea Ranger in tow late this morning and is expected to pick up the Whaler later in the afternoon.

In the meantime the cutter Cactus safely delivered the 90-foot Beatrice and Ida to its home port in New Bedford this morning.

Truman Sends Personal Pleas On Palestine

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—President Truman has made personal and direct appeals to other governments for restraint in dealing with the Palestine situation." His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, gave out this brief statement:

"In an effort to prevent the spread of disorder in the Middle East, this government has, during recent months, addressed appeals to certain interested governments, stressing the importance, in the interest of Middle East security and world peace, of the exercise of restraint in dealing with the Palestine situation. Some of these appeals were made directly by the President."

Ross' statement, on which he refused to elaborate, was prompted by questions growing out of a radio report that Mr. Truman had appealed directly to the Kings of Saudi Arabia and Iraq

British Court Clears U. S. Dad Of Murder in Death of Baby

TROWBRIDGE, Eng., Feb. 16 (AP) — Billy Burke Edwards, 24, of Indianapolis was cleared today of a murder charge in connection with the death of his infant daughter, Brenda.

The court will decide later how to dispose of a charge of "wilfully assaulting Brenda in a manner likely to cause unnecessary suffering and injury to health." Edwards is a former American soldier. His wife and James M. Dawson, Indianapolis attorney, who flew here to help defend him, were in court.

J. F. Claxton, for the prosecution, said Edwards admitted in a statement to police he had struck the child.

"But the death may have had nothing to do with the blow," Claxton said. "I submit that there is not sufficient evidence as it stands to justify the charge continuing. Over and over again he (Edwards) has said he never intended to murder the child."

Prosecutor Claxtxon quoted Edwards as saying when charged:

"I go a bit insane, I guess at times. Why I don't know. I have been handicapped because of my wounds. My wounds are in the chest and I wonder sometimes if they affect my head.

"It must have been like that when I did it to little Brenda, I guess.

"After I hit her, it seems she cried all the next day and all the next night. I was in bed when the wife came upstairs and said 'the baby's dead.'

"I could not believe it. I went downstairs and was hugging and kissing her. I had never touched a dead person before.

"Then I faded out, and eventually took her to the woods. I went a couple of feet in. I wanted to bury her, but I could not. I had a spade with me, but I could not. I just set the baby in a box and left the box under some bushes."

Police said Edwards married a British girl while in the U. S. Army in Britain. Last summer, after his discharge in the United States, he returned with his wife to the nearby village of Southwick, Wiltshire, they said.

Johns Hopkins Makes Bow to New Fathers

BALTIMORE, Feb. 16 (AP)—Johns Hopkins Hospital has finally recognized a father's place in the scene of life.

After numerous complaints and a movement begun by a Baltimore banker with seven young grandchildren, the hospital has installed a men's washroom close to the obstetrical ward's waiting lobby.

BATTLE FOR BABY—Mrs. Katherine Saltz (right), and Mrs. Pauline Radford (left), battle for possession of eight-months-old Richard Saltz in corridor of Chicago court. Mrs. Saltz told the court that she left the child with Mrs. Radford when housing shortage forced her to move to Cleveland, O. She claims the other woman is holding the boy for $1000 ransom. The boy was ordered returned to his mother

Five Films Now in Running For Oscar Award March 20

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16 (AP)—"Gentleman's Agreement" stands a chance of winning seven "Oscars" when the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences presents its annual awards March 20.

The picture, a 20th Century Fox production with anti-Semitism as its theme, and seven persons connected with it were nominated in seven categories.

More than 12,000 members of the motion picture industry participated in the preliminary nominating poll. Ballots for final 1947 winners will be mailed to 1933 members of the academy March 1.

STARS NOMINATED

"Gentleman's Agreement" was nominated for best picture, and its stars, Gregory Peck and Dorothy McGuire, were named in the list of actor and actress competition.

Others connected with the picture who received nominations are Elia Kazan, for directing; Anne Revere and Celeste Holm, for supporting actresses; Moss Hart, for best written screen play, and Harmon Jones, for film editing.

Close competition is expected all the way down the line, however. Opposing "Gentleman's Agreemen for best picture are the "Bishop's Wife" (Samuel Goldwyn, RKO Radio), "Crossfire" (RKO Radio), "Great Expectations" (J. Arthur Rank, British) and "Miracle of 34th Street (20th Century-Fox).

FIVE ACTORS NAMED

For the best acting awards, Peck, John Garfield ("Body and Soul"), Ronald Colman ("A Double Life"), William Powell ("Life With Father") and Michael Redgrave ("Mourning Becomes Electra") were named among the leading men.

Actresses competing for the award for leading ladies will be Loretta Young ("The Farmer's Daughter"), Susan Hayward ("Smash-Up, the Story of a Woman"), Miss McGuire, Rosalind Russell ("Mourning Becomes Electra") and Joan Crawford "Possessed").

Wallace Nominated By New Maryland Party

BALTIMORE, Feb. 16 (AP)—The Progressive Party of Maryland formally came into being here and nominated Henry A. Wallace, as its candidate for President.

A platform adopted unanimously called for a halt to atom-bomb manufacture, a rollback of prices to April 1947 levels, price control and rationing of "cost-of-living" commodities, restoration of the excess profits tax, elimination of Jim Crow laws, repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, and federal assistance for small farmers.

Back Bay Druggist Routs Armed Thug

Morris Goodman, proprietor of a Hemenway st., Back Bay, pharmacy, grappled with a lone holdup man today instead of heeding his order to get into the back room and be quiet.

The surprised gunman broke away and fled, making his escape in an auto which he had parked outside the store.

Goodman described him as about 30 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds. He had a dark complexion and was wearing a dark overcoat and brown hat.

CHECK BELGIAN STRIKES

BRUSSELS, Feb. 16 (AP)—Belgium's spreading strikes appeared near an end today following a warning by Achille Van Acker, minister of transport, that civil suits might be brought against strikers. The strikes have involved some 100,000 workers. Van Acker blamed Communist agitators.

'Remember Maine' Ceremony in Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 16 (AP)—They "remembered the Maine" here when thousands of Cubans and Americans assembled Sunday at the marble shaft commemorating those who died when the U. S. battleship Maine went down in Havana harbor 50 years ago.

The sinking of the Maine provided the spark which started the Spanish-American War and eventually brought independence to Cuba. The explosion which sent her down never has been satisfactorily explained.

War veterans from both countries attended the ceremonies, at which President Ramon Grau San Martin was the principal speaker. U. S. Ambassador R. Henry Norweb and Sen. Dennis Chavez (D.) of New Mexico also spoke.

'Cinderella'

of beer, and all our mining friends celebrated."

After the wedding, Julius said, his father returned to his family in Lithuania, while he took his bride back to the Cherry Valley mine.

Julius' fastidious bride was dissatisfied with Cherry Valley, so they packed up and moved back to Noblestown.

Here Julius got a job in the Fayette mine and rented a 4-room house in "Mine Row," where there were 32 homes, all of similar structure, standing side by side.

A year later—in 1916—their first child was born. She was Jievute (Sweet Little Eva), the Cinderella girl for whom the "golden door" was to open 31 years later.

Julius recalled Eva's birth as follows:

"I paid the mine doctor a fixed amount every month to take care of me. But to deliver little Eva, he said, would cost $15 extra. The doctor brought a Polish midwife with him and then the big day came.

"Little Eva was a nice baby. I don't remember how much she weighed, but she was a pretty big one. No small baby for us.

"My wife took good care of little Eva. I paid the doctor $15 for delivering our baby. I carried my money with me. It was worth it, because little Eva was a good looking girl even then."

In 1917 another daughter was born, Isobel, who was to be little Eva's maid of honor in the "Cinderella" marriage of 1948.

Julius said the family of four moved again to Minersville, W. Va., where he worked in Fort Pitt mine and found a modern home.

Littl Eva, was now 2 years old, her favorite toys were small dishes. The taffy-headed girl simulated marriage, washing her toy cups and saucers, bawling out an imaginary husband and playing "house." She rarely cried.

'SMART LITTLE GIRL'

Eva was taught to speak the Lithuanian language, together with English, said Julius, adding:

"She was a smart little girl and learned quickly. She was able to write, even at the age of 3, both in English and Lithuanian."

Julius said the family attended the local Catholic parish church, but in 1920 came a drastic change in the Paulekiute family life.

With $3000 saved through his wife's thrift, the family packed up and sailed for Lithuania. Eva was then only 4. Julius explained:

"We were homesick, my wife and I. We went back to her home in Kelvarija and bought a farm with our savings.

"We all worked on the farm. Even Eva helped with her smaller sister, mostly picking berries.

"Eva was a strong, solid girl already and liked to play in the sun. Eva liked to go to church all the time. The village had only two churches, but Eva was still too young to go to school."

Julius said the family at first intended to remain in Lithuania and work the small farm, like other peasant families.

Soon, however, the small family began to see the difference between the freedom of American life and the restricted rule of living in the Baltic area, which Julius said was even then under Russian domination. Troubles loomed ahead for the family.

Read the second installment in the life story of this modern "Cinderella" in the Boston Evening American tomorrow.

Dr. O'Brien Rites Set Wednesday

Funeral services for Dr. Edward J. O'Brien, Jr., 60, surgeon-in-chief at Cambridge City Hospital who died of a heart attack after performing two operations at the hospital will be held Wednesday at the Presentation Church, Brighton, with solemn requiem mass at 9 a. m.

Burial will be in Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline.

Before his graduation from Tufts Medical School in 1912, Dr. O'Brien had served as sports correspondent for Boston newspapers and as a football official in schoolboy games. Later, his name became synonymous with big games in the East. He was appointed chief of staff at the Cambridge City Hospital in 1916.

Born in East Boston, he is survived by four sons, all of whom made brilliant World War II records, and a daughter. They are former Lt. Com. Paul R., Lt. Richard P., Com. Edward J. 3d, all USNR, and Capt. Robert F., USMCR and Mary C. O'Brien.

Hunt Hit-Run Killer Of S. End Woman

Search was being made today for the hit-run driver whose car, police said, struck Mrs. Helen Galvin, 31, of West Brookline st, South End. Mrs. Galvin died at City Hospital.

Police expressed the opinion the driver had picked up the broken body of the victim and tossed it into a snowbank. An autopsy by Medical Examiner Timothy Leary indicated death was caused by a crushed liver and multiple other injuries.

Mrs. Galvin leaves a daughter, Patricia, 11, and a sister Mrs. Ruth Oram of Union Park st, South End.

Three Gunmen Hunted In $50,000 N. Y. Robbery

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (INS)— Police today hunted three gunmen who invaded the home of a wealthy Brooklyn meat dealer and escaped with $50,000 in jewels and cash from a wall safe after tying the maid to a chair.

Emily Jeffers, 38, the maid, told police the trio forced the rear door of the home owned by Joseph Blumberg and worked unhurriedly for more than two hours. The Blumberg family was not at home.

Widening of Security, Old Age Benefits Urged on Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—The Truman Administration pleaded anew with Congress today to let more people qualify for old age pensions while Rep. Kean (R.) of New Jersey, outlined his own plan to add 20,000,000 workers to the eligible list.

The Administration went further. It said the government needs a program covering "all major risks to economic independence," including disability and medical care insurance.

This objective was outlined in the annual report of the Social Security Administration. President Truman is expected to follow it up shortly with his promised special message on the subject.

Keen has drafted a bill to carry out his ideas. He claims it will save the government money in the long run.

INCLUDES NEW GROUPS

His plan is to make the self-employed, including farmers and small businessmen, eligible for old age pensions under the Social Security system. Domestic workers, farm hands and others would be included, and so would State and local government workers, if the State so desired.

All told, some 60,000,000 people would be covered, compared with 40,000,000 now.

The Social Security report favored adding all these people, and further suggested including federal workers as well as members of the armed forces and railroad workers not now covered by their own pension systems.

In a statement telling why his plan would cost less eventually, Kean said the government spends millions of dollars matching State funds for direct aid to elderly people, outside the insurance program.

BUILD UP CREDITS

"If the system is broadened as provided by my bill," Kean said, "The federal government could gradually withdraw its tribution to old age assistance as citizens build up sizeable (Social Security) credits."

Both Kean and the Social Security Administration suggested boosting the lowest monthly retirement payment from $10 to $20. The minimum is set for persons who have built up small insurance credits because of limited time spent in covered employment.

The administration also proposed a jump in the maximum from $85 to $120 a month.

Cambridge Resumes Mayoral Vote Derby

Still hopeful of electing a mayor, the Cambridge City Council met again today to resume balloting.

The nine councilors have taken 841 ballots to date in 16 sessions without a majority agreeing on any one of their number to assume the largely honorary title of mayor in the Plan E city.

Who Pays for Telephone Expansion?

INVESTORS DO.

They buy telephone bonds and stocks and we use the money to pay for new telephone facilities. . . . On the other hand, the money you pay us for telephone service is used largely for wages, taxes, and other day-by-day operating costs.

When you read about the millions of dollars we are putting into our expansion program, remember — they are provided by investors to build and install the costly telephone equipment which is at your service every time you use the telephone.

Protest on Chairs for Army Officers, Saves $2,567,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Rep. Engel (R.) of Michigan criticized today Army plans to buy 161,172 custom built chairs for officers.

Had he not protested, Engel said in a speech prepared for his colleagues, the Army would have paid an average of $26 each for the chairs, instead of $9.45. That, he added, would have been throwing away $2,567,000.

Engel is chairman of an appropriations sub-committee considering the Army's budget. He has made several critical speeches since Congress reconvened. Some colleagues are interpreting them as hunting a big cut in Army funds for next year.

As related by Engel, this is the story of the chairs.

Bids were asked last spring on specifications so complicated they covered four typewritten pages.

The bids ranged from $20 to $33.

The Aluminum Cooking Utensil Co. of Kensington, Pa., offered to furnish a similar chair for $12.75 but it did not meet specifications.

A company agent was told by the acting quartermaster general whom Engle did not name, that "any salesman who attempts to sell the Army items because they are cheaper was making the wrong approach."

The major difference between the $26 and the cheaper chair was that the cheaper ones had differently shaped legs and were of bolted instead of welded construction.

Finally, Engel said, the Army discarded its original plans and drew up specifications for two other types of chairs. These were purchased at an average price of $9.45 each, he related.

20 Faith Triumphs Over Drug Habit

After having ben a drug addict for 10 years, during which she was sent to jail five times, Boston-born Beverly Shaw, former Miss America contestant and vaudeville star, discovered faith in God was the weapon she needed.

Today she is working with other addicts, showing them how they, too, can win their battle against drugs and find the road back to a normal, healthy life.

Beverly Shaw will tell her inspiring story of perseverance against seemingly hopeless odds in the article "I Was a Drug Addict" in next Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Kane Hits Extra Jobs of Firemen

Dissatisfaction among members of Woburn's Fire Dept. over the new 48 - hour - week working schedules, which became effective Saturday midnight, brought a statement today from Mayor William F. Kane that he had devised the schedule to prevent firemen from taking jobs that should be given to others.

"The present generation of firemen," Kane said, "are mostly politicians seeking more money for less time on duty so they can have more time to take on other jobs."

The firemen have raised several questions, involving the amount of compensation for time worked at a fire over and above the 48-hour schedule, and whether such compensation shall be in pay or time off. They are awaiting a reply from the mayor to these questions.

Nolen and Miles Are Wrong

SEN. WILLIAM E. NOLEN of Holyoke, and Rep. Sherman Miles of Boston, sponsors of the pro-vivisection bill, known as Senate Bill No. 264, have written us the following letter:

"Senate Bill 264, regarding disposition of unclaimed animals in public pounds has apparently been widely misunderstood, at least as to its intent. May we inform your readers that the bill applies only to condemned animals, unclaimed and unplaceable, and seeks to attack the widespread traffic in animals stolen for vivisection? We hope that your readers who are interested in animals, whatever their views on the matter, will come to the scheduled hearing before the Committee on Legal Affairs on February 24th."

This admission that animals are stolen for vivisection will interest most persons, for it has been the common practice of those who justify experiments on living cats and dogs to deny that such larceny ever occurs in Massachusetts.

We cannot agree with Messrs. Nolen and Miles that their bill is "misunderstood," as they complain. Our feeling is that it is very generally and very accurately UNDERSTOOD.

WHO CONDEMNS THE ANIMALS IN POUNDS AND WHO HOLDS THAT THEY ARE "UNCLAIMED" AND "UNPLACEABLE"?

All this is done quite artfully by the complicated machinery which the Nolen-Miles Bill proposes to set up for the vivisectors' convenience.

The measure says: "It shall be the duty of any dog officer or pound master or of any person performing the functions of dog officer or pound master in the Commonwealth to deliver from among the available impounded animals ON THE DEMAND of an institution possessing a license from the licensing authority SUCH NUMBER OF ANIMALS as the institution may demand and may require to carry on its activities."

At the present time, in the hospitals of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the Animal Rescue League of Boston and similar organizations, the cat or dog that is too sick or too old to be placed in a household is painlessly and humanely put to sleep, as existing statutes provide.

But under the Nolen-Miles Bill, the cat or dog would be rushed away in six days to a laboratory to be cut up or innoculated with a drug or chemical, even one capable of producing the most extreme agony.

MESSRS. NOLEN AND MILES claim that they are trying to prevent traffic in stolen animals. Why, then, did they insert this clause in their bill:

"Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to affect the right of an institution to obtain animals from sources other than animal pounds?"

Obviously, if a vivisector is getting material for his experiments from places best known to himself he can keep on doing so.

The Nolen-Miles Bill is nothing more than a frank effort to obtain other persons' property cheaply, readily and certainly for the dissection tables of vivisection laboratories, since from its start to its finish, it persistently implies that the needs of the scalpel are more important than the sentiments of the people.

We therefore urge all persons who believe in humanity to join in a vigorous fight to defeat this measure before the Legislature makes the tragic error of enacting it.

For the convenience of the thousands who can be relied upon to do their part in the essential effort, we offer this coupon to be filled out and mailed to the Legal Affairs Committee, State House, Boston.

I wish to be recorded against Senate Bill 264, known as the Nolen-Miles Bill, and I request the Committee to reject it.

Woo her, when the north winds call,
At the lattice nightly;
When within the cheerful hall,
The wood-fire blazes brightly;
When the wintry tempest round
Sweeps the landscape hoary,
Sweeter in her ear shall wound
Love's delightful story.
BRYANT.

IN COMMON with the poets of his period W. C. Bryant, Esq., took the highly romantic view the male was the pursuer, the female the pursued. That when a marriage was discussed it was necessary to get the girl in a receptive mood. Present day Horses & Women experts take the practical view it is the man who must be put into the mood for matrimony. In the moonlight, a bachelor is often in the mood for love but not marriage. However, in the good old winter time, before a wood-burning fireplace even the most reluctant of bachelors is inspired to think how nice it would be to have a home of his own. We trust this word to wise young women is sufficient.

PASSING BY Hildegarde Sell. The Milwaukee chanteuse. Noting it stated in print she couldn't play the piano, the versatile Hildegarde at her very next performance revealed herself to be an accomplished pianist. The songs I like best on the current program of this carefree chanteuse are: "Ask Your Heart," "Thank You For The Roses," "Don't Be A Woman If You Can" and "I'll Be Seeing You". Fritzi Scheff, Turn of the century heart-throb. It was 43 years ago she became the toast of Broadway because of her appealing rendition of "Kiss Me Again." Now 68 years old, Fritzi is still going strong on the stage. She has been married three times, once to John Fox, Jr., author of "The Trail Of The Lonesome Pine."

THE CHECKING on this column has taken on an international aspect. The brilliant conductor of the "Tatler" column in the Irish Independent, Dublin, takes me to task for the alleged inadequacy of my recent explanation of the Irish sport of hurling. As my chief desire is to be accurate I find this criticism from such an authoritative source somewhat depressing. Consequently I have been doing additional research on the subject. In the course of so doing I find Edgar Meagher of the Irish Echo, in trying to explain hurling to Frank Menke said: "Hurling is a refined game. Rare is it when a player gets killed. Of course, some do get fractured skulls but if a man with a weak head plays hurling what can he expect?" Anyway, my research on hurling will be extensive. Who knows, I may become so expert on this sport I will be able to write a book titled "Hurling By Durling."

MULES & MEN: Nowadays practically any woman with the inclination and the money can have herself made three times more beautiful and at least 15 years younger looking. That's why we see so many middle-aged men with young appearing wives. In recent years, many husbands growing weary of being taken for their wife's father decided to go in for various types of rejuvenating treatments and have become patrons of beauty shops. In New York state an obstacle has been placed in their path. In that state, it is against the law for a beauty shop operator to give a man a hair treatment. The law says beauty parlor operators must work only on "female heads." Assemblywoman Genesta Strong recently characterized this legislation as "unfair," said she: "After all, if a man wants to be beautiful the achievement of this desire should be within the law." Inasmuch as Genesta uses the term "beautiful" in this statement, I suspect she is kidding the boys. This department is in sympathy with the idea of a man trying to look as young as possible. A youthful appearance is a business asset. However, we agree with the lawmakers this time. The operations necessary to achieve said youthful looks should be conducted in barber shops.

ASKING: Query from client. Q—My girl friend, a college co-ed, has fallen in love with her archery teacher but he doesn't love back. What can she do? A—College co-eds usually have elastic hearts. Tell her to enjoy her broken heart for a reasonable period of torch-carrying and then to fall in love with somebody else. I have seen it stated instructors or professors in chemistry make the best husbands among college faculty members. Our Mules & Men department has as yet been unable to confirm this claim.

THAT CLUB: Channing Manning of San Francisco has refused to either deny or confirm the rumor he will run for president of the My Name Is a Poem Club to succeed Hugh Blue. Incidentally, there is in Banning, Cal., an organization named the Banning Canning Co. Mr. Manning should join that outfit. Think of the attention-arresting power of a telephone call beginning: "This is Channing Manning of Banning Canning"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1948, by King Features Syndicate

I DESIRE to supplement an important historical document, the life story of Babe Ruth, a great American, which has been written for printing and moving pictures by Bob Considine.

Westbrook Pegler

The Babe came to New York from the Boston Red Sox in 1919 in a deal that was part of a disguised case of syndicate baseball. Harry Frazee, a theatrical fellow who came from Peoria, had acquired title to the Boston Red Sox and was selling down to the rich and extravagant angels of the New York club a bunch of ivory on the hoof, including Ruth, who were to win several pennants.

The rich and extravagant New York promoters, T. L. Huston and Jake Ruppert, had advanced Frazee a lot of money toward the purchase of the Boston team. He wrecked the Boston team, or, more pleasantly put, he transferred the best of a great club to New York.

IN THE EARLY PART of the 1920 season, perhaps about May, Fred Ferguson, then the manager of an affair called the United News, a news report known in the trade as the wire, women and song service, had one of his ideas.

He left word all over town for Ruth to telephone him, but Ruth had never heard of him. Afraid that someone else in the same business might have the same idea, Mr. Ferguson observed that the Yankees were playing in Philadelphia, and went down to proposition him.

He found the Babe and a half dozen other Yankees on their knees in a room playing a game that is played with dice. The hotel was the Aldine, strangely infested with elderly ladies, and sedate enough for umpires. It had the finest American-plan dining room in any league.

I never could understand why the Aldine took a ball club on the American plan, at whatever price. Mr. Ferguson observed that the only way he could hope to get close to the Babe was to get into the crap game.

Mr. Ferguson went crazy and cleaned out the crap game, and, with the prestige thus acquired, was able to impress the Babe with his importance and acumen. He made a contract assuring the Babe $1000 for the season and $5 each for his home runs, and containing a reserve clause binding him to cover the World Series for us, in person.

STILL FURTHER, Ruth was to authorize a weekly resume of the activities in both major leagues and an occasional prediction. And, by way of earning his $5 for each home run, he was to send us a wire after each game, telling us, in his own inimitable language, what the situation was at the time and what kind of ball it was.

He had hit about a dozen home runs without sending any such dispatches and I, as his spook, had imaginized the situations and the types of pitches. But Mr. Ferguson got petulant, for he is a bargainy fellow, wired the Babe demanding to know. And furthermore, he demanded a telegram after each home run henceforth.

Two days later, from Detroit, we got a wire late at night, long after the little Babe Ruth essay on the day's home run had cleared.

"Socked one today," it read, "Fast ball. High outside. BABE."

THE BABE'S PUBLIC was expanding and I was assigned to catch the Yankees in St. Louis, interview him exhaustively for his life story, and rush back to New York to put it into deathless prose.

I waylaid him in the lobby every night and tried to mousetrap him. I wheedled with Ping Bodie, his roommate. But he never came home and just appeared at and disappeared from the ball park every day.

On the Saturday night we went up to Chicago, but he played cards all night. On the Sunday morning, he went to mass and then played sandlot ball with a lot of kids until about noon.

I then had 13 minutes with him and went back to New York, where George Buchanan Fife, of the Evening World, and I produced 80,000 words, some of them very good, in four days, turn and turn-about. We got nothing extra, but I believe the Babe got $500.

THE DODGERS and the Indians played the World Series and Mr. Ferguson asked Ruth whether he was going to show up to cover the games. He wasn't acting as though he intended to.

He wasn't. He had an offer of $1000 to go barnstorming and he defied Mr. Ferguson to sue him. So Sidney Whipple was assigned to go with him and the great essays on the strategy of the 1920 World Series by Babe Ruth were written from Perth Amboy, Camden, Scranton and such points and not a bit the worse for that.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16 — Ayn Rand's "Fountainhead" has been brought out in the open again by Warners, who have owned it for at least four years. There was always some reason why it could not be put on the screen — either too much money or an inappropriate time. But now King Vidor is set to direct it with Henry Blanke nominated as its producer.

Joan Crawford

Gary Cooper, who now belongs to Warner's, gets the starring part that's definite. I have an idea that Joan Crawford will co-star with Gary — but not definite.

It was Barbara Stanwyck who talked Jack Warner into buying the novel originally and for a long time there was talk that it was intended for Barbara. Then again, it was said Clark Gable was trying to buy 'Fountainhead." But these were just rumors.

REALLY AMAZING, the exciting plans Susan Peters has for her future career since she appeared in "Sign of the Ram."

Just today Irving Cummings, Sr., told me that he and his son, Irving, Jr., will take Susan to Paris to star in "Paris Rhapsody" late this year.

Isn't it wonderful that this girl, who was stricken down right at the height of her career and who might have given in to black disaster, has refused to be downed? A wheelchair may confine her body but there are no bounds to her wonderful fighting spirit.

She's even planning a personal appearance tour in "Sign of the Ram," which will keep her busy until time to go abroad. Charles Bennett, author of "Paris Rhapsody," is also scripting it.

THE OHIO CENSOR board literally cut Joan Bennett's picture, "The Secret Beyond the Door," into such ribbons that Walter Wanger will not show it in Ohio unless the decision is reversed.

You might think that there was some horrible immorality involved in such drastic cuts; but Walter Wanger says their refusal hinges on scenes of psychiatry involving a character mentally ill. The story is that of a man who has a murder complex but never commits one because his wife's devotion saves him.

Walter says to cut out the scenes, such as the Ohio censors suggest, would be to cut out the very heart and meaning of the picture.

VIRGINIA BRUCE, who has been making many trips to Washington in an effort to get her husband, Ali Ipar, a permit to return to this country, has at last found a ray of hope. She believes she can get permission to bring her husband back to Hollywood on a resident visa.

She has just returned from Switzerland and France, but was not permitted to go into Turkey to see him, and he could not get permission to visit her in Europe. The Turkish quota is filled for the next 20 years in the United States and unless some exception is made in Ipar's case, there is small hope of Virginia ever seeing her husband which is, indeed, tragic.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: One of the happiest brides in our town is Florence Wagner, who married Jim Breeze today. Florence is the widow of Rob Wagner, famous Hollywood scribe and editor of Script magazine.

The bridegroom is a very wealthy inventor from Santa Fe, N. M., and is said to be charming. Well, he has married a charming woman, to which all Florence's friends will attest. For years she and Rob were the editors. Mr. and Mrs." of Hollywood and Beverly Hills rowing not only the movie news with their breezy views but also the social and art circles.

At the time of Rob's death, Florence thought all joy and happiness had gone out of her life forever, and it is wonderful she has found new happiness.

JANE NIGH, pretty 20th actress, who has been rumored engaged to more young men than any other glamor girl, has set her wedding date.

Jane will marry John Lindsay, successful young Los Angeles architect in May, and they will live in a new house the bridegroom has designed for her. They would marry at once, but the house won't be finished until May.

THAT DC-3 PLANE missing between Los Angeles and Mexico City is the one Tyrone Power flew to Europe and Africa on his recent jaunt. He called it "The Geek" after the character he played in "Nightmare Alley."

This was practically its first trip since 20th Century-Fox sold it to the Mexican government. It's been missing several days, so Mexico is practically ready to concede that it must have crashed.

WITH THE CALIFORNIA drouth situation what it is, Fortunio Bonanova is on his way to becoming "Fortune" Bonanova and here is why:

The singer-actor has formed a company called "Rain, Unlimited," which is a process of dropping dry ice through clouds in order to bring on much-needed rain (we're eight inches under per this year). Bonanova has already bought an airplane and cleared a landing field on his valley property.

Along with Mr. Rain-maker in this scheme are many of his co-backers in "Adventures of Don Juan" and the corporation papers are being signed in Sacramento this week.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random.

The burns Kay Francis received, when she took an overdose of sleeping pills in Columbus, Ohio, are more serious than was at first reported. She will have to undergo plastic surgery.

Kay Francis

Jennifer Jones arrives today from Europe and David Selznick is in New York to meet her. I don't think they'll keep their engagement a secret much longer.

There is a rumor that Jules Stein, head of MCA, is interested in buying Blum's candy company in San Francisco, from Fred Blum.

Rocky Graziano who won a fight championship and was then suspended for allegedly refusing to report a tribe will be a father for the second time early in the spring.

The sudden illness of Salvador Dunning husband of Celeste Holm frightened her nearly to death. His doctor diagnosed it as a germ he picked up overseas which affected the glands in his neck. So many of our veterans have been similarly affected.

Sir Alexander Korda arrives next week and while here will be the house guest of Joseph Schenck in Joe's new home, which Tommy Little, of 20th, decorated and which is one of the most attractive and livable in our town.

It was Jack Smith and not Jack Smart as I reported who is the fiance of Jimmy Walker and is being tested. It was Gene Markey's bad handwriting that was responsible for the mistake, so he's apologizing and not me. Anyway, Mr. Smith has 9999 friends in New York who wired me about the mistake.

The tragic story of Barbara Hutton's illness has never been fully told. It is doubtful if she will ever get completely well.

June Haver's younger sister Evelyn, has dated the stork for June. Evelyn is married to Jim McNamara, a college student.

Natalie Draper and Ivan Goff at the Mocambo dancing every night. Apparently that romance is still on very much.

The friends of Janet Thomas say that she will marry Bobby Green. They are now in Acapulco, and her romance with Johnny Meyer is cold, cold, cold.

June Haver and Bill Spier said June 1 for Europe on a honeymoon. They had their wedding party Saturday night at Mitch Leisen's studio, and it was a very festive affair with a good time had by all.

My Boston

By Alan Frazer

TAKING YOU AROUND: At 1:30 p. m., you're eating chicken pie with 100 others at a Governor's Luncheon at the Parker House and making notes on the back of an envelope . . . You're in the Hawthorne Room where Boston's literary stars of the Saturday Club used to constellate . . . Dreaming back 80-odd years you can see Dr. Holmes there, musing over the deaths of Hawthorne, Agassiz, Motley, Dana, Longfellow and Emerson, and writing: 'Loosed from its chains, along the wreck-strewn track of the dead years my soul goes tracking back.' . . . 2:15 p. m. You're listening to Ray Brannigan, national chief of the VFW, whose surprised soul is tracking back to the breakfast Jim Curley gave him at the Statler. 'Baked beans for breakfast! That's something that never happened to me before! Wonder what's going to happen at that dinner tonight. . . . You get down a note that Ray evidently still too surprised to mention—Jim's fishcakes and sausages . . . 2:30 p. m. Your host Bob Bradford is accusing Ray of smacking his lips over Gov. Bob. I feel he does. 'I know a lady in Plymouth County,' the Governor is saying, "who questioned her nephew when he returned from a trip to New York: 'Big place isn't it? . . . Several hotels.' Strange customs? . . . Don't tell me they breakfast on gingerbread and dry cereal instead of creamed lobster and apple pie!'

4 P. M. You're sitting by the window in Room 818 of the Parker House, looking out on N. E. Branch headquarters of the Veterans Administration. You're chatting with George Iams (pronounced Imes), national rehabilitation director of the VFW, who was in the VA 28 years, headed all its departments, once headed the entire organization . . . You're scribbling on a telephone pad. George is telling you that veterans' benefits originated in your State. "In the days of Miles Standish he is saying, "the Plymouth colonists decreed that any man wounded in Indian fighting would be cared for." . . . 4:30 p. m. You're talking with George about the recent big slashes in VA personal . . . And George is telling you that he favors economy in the VA so we won't ever have another Economy Act like the one that curtailed benefits so drastically in 1933 . . . But he's for economizing by elimination of high-salaried, non-essential positions "like those in the Coordination and Planning Division, and all officials who prepare forms, flow-charts, reports, news releases, etc., eating up millions of dollars intended for disabled veterans' benefits."

6:45 P. M. You're descending the carpeted stairs to the crowded Statler Terrace Room where it's sweethearts' night. Albert places you where you can see Louis and Pauline Marlantes of Somerville. Twenty-eight years ago, Louis and Pauline picked St. Valentine's Day for their wedding so now they're celebrating a comeback and meeting dinner to celebrate their anniversary . . . Pauline is a Gold Star Mother. You were on the cusp of a storm that whips Wacky Beaches, looked "Voice of the Turtle" into the Met, then had a 2½-mile swim to Lovell's. How I Met My Sweetheart: Pauline met Louis across a fire escape in East Boston when she was five. You lived next to the fish market on the turtle-doves. And you learn that Pauline used to cook over the fire-escape. 'How Lovell has now. May get those cookies done yet!'

Warm by the time you were ready. Pauline and Louis played house with dolls. So Paul remembering invited her first contest with Last Prize. Now would seeing her wedding cake first only) eating her first table dance . . . 7:45 p. m. Liberace opens and Liberace choo-choo is playing Franz Liszt's Hungarian Fantasy for you, under a candelabrum on the world's largest piano (which cost 15¢ grand). 8:15 p. m. He's playing musical valentines for couples in his audience. 'Kiss Me Again'. . . Let Me Call You Sweetheart." While the handsome young man plays the notes their hearts whisper the words . . . 8:30 p. m. Mary Ellen Hagland a little girl in a plaid dress is seated beside the great pianist. The maestro is giving Mary Ellen her first lesson, then her first miniature piano, then her first gardenia. So Mary Ellen gives Liberace a kiss (not his first).

9 P. M. You're jotting down notes on odd bits of paper in the dark at the Latin Quarter. Bill Kenny, Butterball Bowen, Charlie Fuqua and Bill's brother, Herb, are singing their barbershop refrains . . . It's the Inkspots: "In a vision I could see someone taking you from me, then I woke up with a teardrop in my eye" . . . "If I didn't care, would I feel this way?" . . . 'Maybe you'll think of me when we are far apart, maybe the day when crying for you will come to an end. . . . 10 p. m. You're talking politics now at Jimmie's O'Keefe's with Dorchester's Senator Joe Murphy whose dining there. And the Cotton business with Ralph ("Mother") Mosher, old Medford High football captain. You discover Ralph talks politics, too. Just back from Baltimore and Charlottesville, Va., where his war-wounded son is attending U. of Virginia. Ralph tells Joe and you that the South speaks highly of our Senator Lodge . . . 11 p. m. You're in a corner of the crowded Oval Room at the Copley Plaza, and noting (on the back of a railroad ticket) that Joan Edwards' patter does something to you. It's about your schooldays and her uncle Gus, who started off Cantor, Jessel, Eleanor Powell, Hildegarde, Winchell, Eddie Dowling, Rosa Ponsell, many others . . . It's Gus kid-actors singing: "Sunbonnet Sue, Sunbonnet Sue, sunshine and roses on second to you" . . . It's Joan singing: "I hang my hat on the breeze, and where I please."

11:35 P. M. As you enter the Show-Bar Red Barrett again stirs the ashes of your past with his: "H-A-double R-I-G-A-N spells Harrigan. Proud of all the Irish blood a that's in him, and a man can say a word in the Irish." 11:40 p. m. Over the footlights the sweet voice of Jimmie Burtch is calling "Macushla Macushla . . . 11:55 p. m. You look in at the Music Box. Joe Geary, Hot Stove League maestro, is just banking his fire: "Williams, Speaker and Ruth . . ."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16— Mr. Clarence W. (Slats) Rafferty, the retired safecracker, sidled in today without his mask and said it sure looked like a shoo-in for this feller Lincoln.

"Looks like he can't miss," stated Mr. Rafferty, sucking on a stick of dynamite which he prefers to a lollipop. "All them Republicans are for him all the way, drill, fuse and percussion cap."

"You mean 'hook, line and sinker,'" corrected my senior Naval aide, Machinists Mate Michelangelo Rembrandt Kelly.

"You stick to your racket," rebuffed Mr. Rafferty, "and I'll stick to mine. I never seen the Republicans agree on anything the way they agree on this feller Lincoln. Must be a right gee. I wouldn't be surprised if he won by inclination."

"'Acclamation,'" corrected Machinists Mate Kelly who has been flaunting his erudition ever since he spent two weeks deciding not to go to college under the GI Bill of Rights. "But you're crazy about Lincoln being nominated. He's dead."

"You know I sorta thought he was meself," said Mr. Rafferty. "Didn't somebody give him the biz?"

"Yeh, I think it was a guy named Wendell Willkie. Anyway the name was something like Willkie."

"WELL," SAID Mr. Rafferty, "I guess Lincoln's mob will take care of him. But if Lincoln is a stifferoo where do all these Senators and such get off saying he would do this or that if faced with these here present emergencies? They were all over the country last week blatting about what Lincoln would do—and how would they know what he'd do if somebody has put the chill on him and he can't talk?"

My Naval aide admitted this had never occurred to him.

"But," added Mr. Kelly, "I don't think Truman is going to get the Democratic nomination anyway. From what I hear everywhere it will be either Jackson or Jefferson.

"THE DEMOCRATS are touting them all over the country this week," continued Mr. Kelly. "They are having a big blow-out for them in the Mayflower on Thursday with the regular blue plate special setting the suckers back $100 apiece. Although," he added, "I hear that if you put up a big enough squawk you can get an extra stalk of celery at no extra cost, or maybe just a nominal charge like $85."

"I went to a testimonial dinner once for Quintero at which we charged $50 a plate," sighed Mr. Rafferty nostalgically. "But the money came in handy for flowers next day after the dinner committee cooled him off for trying to glaum the receipts. What's with Jackson and Jefferson?"

"The Democrats even in the South, are all for them, so it looks as if Truman is cooked. However they might let him run for vice president."

"Truman has had some practice at it," added Mr. Kelly, "and he might find it very restful to get back there. All he would have to do is squat in a nice comfortable chair in the Senate and refer all questions to the parliamentarian."

Crash With Milk Tanker Fatal to Vermont Couple

RANDOLPH, Vt., Feb. 16—Shortly after they set out from their Barre home on a motor trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. George Kent were dead today following a highway crash on Route 14.

The driver of their car, Earl Covey, 38, is in serious condition at Gifford Memorial Hospital. Their auto was demolished in a collision with a milk tank truck, the operator of which was not hurt. Kent was an insurance executive in Barre.

Flier Commended In Crash-Landing

Navy Lt Richard Stephanski of Watertown and Wollaston, was commended today by Capt P Smoot, commanding the Squantum Air Base, for his expert landing of a Corsair fighter plane on a snow-covered marsh along the Neponset river in Milton.

Taking off from the Squantum base on a routine flight the reserve pilot, veteran of the Pacific war, made a belly landing after the plane's motor went dead at 700 feet. The propeller's three blades were bent in the landing and there was slight damage to the fuselage, but the flier was uninjured.

Police and firemen, two ambulances and fire-fighting apparatus rushed to the scene on first reports the plane had crashed. Traffic was tied up for miles as hundreds of motorists went to view the accident.

Pair Taken in Chase Face Auto Theft Charge

PITTSFIELD, Feb. 16—Following a 35-mile chase at speeds that reached 65 miles an hour, two local youths were due to face court today on charges of theft of an auto in which they were captured.

The chase began here and ended in Goshen, where the car was overtaken.

Second Bridal Makes Laraine, Leo Legally Wed in California

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 16 (AP)—Garrulous Leo Durocher of Brooklyn and film actress Laraine Day are legally Mr. and Mrs. Durocher in California today.

They were married for the second time last night. Mormon Bishop William Brown performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives only.

California did not recognize the couple's marriage in El Paso, Tex., Jan. 21, 1947, immediately after Miss Day had obtained a Mexican divorce from Los Angeles airport employe, Ray Hendricks in Juarez. Laraine had obtained a California divorce the day before the Juarez decree.

Superior Judge George Dockweiler, who granted the divorce in Los Angeles, said both the Mexican decree and the Texas marriage were illegal, and he threatened to nullify the Los Angeles divorce on the ground it was obtained through collusion.

NOBODY'S MAN

(A Complete Short Story)

By GEORGE E. MAGEE

JODE LOGAN was real to me. No wonder. Most of ma's stories were about him.

"He's nobody's man," she'd say. "And he doesn't have to be. Nobody's man, that's Jode Logan."

Mostly she talked about him when gramp had closed the trading post on Sweetwater Creek, and stumped off to bed. We'd sit out on the porch in moonlight. I liked to hear her tell about Jode Logan. Her voice got deep, and shook a little.

"Jode Logan," she'd begin—she always spoke of him like that. "Jode Logan could sing the birds outa the trees, and he was a fiddle-playing fool. Big and strong, and straight he was."

And Injuns," she'd kind of sigh. "He could out-run, out-shoot, and out-talk 'em. All the young squaws was in love with him. Sometimes when they was warring with whites, he'd walk right into their camp, throw down a bunch of buffalo and yell for a meal. He always got it. He wore two guns, and he could shoot the head off a bee at 50 paces with either one. And he'd throw back his head and just beller when something tickled him. His eyes would shine like fire. His worst enemy would have to laugh with him. He had a paint horse that would come running to him at a whistle. The army wanted to get him to fight with them. The Injuns wanted him, too. And the government offered him a job of guiding. But he was nobody's man. He couldn't be tied."

A WOMAN WITHOUT FEAR

I got all shivery inside when she told about the Injuns. I was 10, and I was scared when they came stalking to the post, the feathers on their heads scraping the door-top. But ma wasn't. She'd trade with them and call them funny names; Mud-in-the-Face, she called one. And another Dew Drop, and one chief, the hardest-looking of all, she called Big Mouth.

Grampy didn't like that. "A chiefs' a chief," he'd say. "I want fellers' trade." But mostly he'd laugh in his beard.

It was funny to see ma stand up and sass them big bucks. When I got to understand a little, I heard them talking about a feller they called Fire-on-the-Prairie. Ma was always asking about him. It was long before I knew he was the same as Jode Logan. And that he wasn't just a story.

I was hanging around the store one day when Big Mouth came in. He was feeling pretty good. He bought me a stick of striped candy.

"Thank him," said ma.

I took off my hat, polite like I'd been taught, and said, "Thank you."

He looked at my haid. He grinned at ma. "He looks like ——"

"Here's your tea, and sugar," said ma quickly, and followed him out, speaking low.

People began moving in around the trading post. I noticed that boys generally had fathers. They'd come riding in with the boys in front of them in the saddle. And they'd take them by the hand to lead them into the store.

I asked ma, "Where's my father?"

She stood stock still for a moment like a deer does when you shoot close. Then she said. "You got a father, but he ain't around. We get along all right. You forget him." But all at once she dropped down on her knees and held me tight. "Oh God, forgive me," she said, choking like. "I'll tell you about him sometime. He's the bravest man in the world. The most loving and the handsomest. He wasn't to blame. Always remember that. It was my fault."

She was crying. It made me feel bad. More and more I thought about my pa. Mebbe it was because the army moved in to a fort near us. A feller came to the post dressed in a blue uniform, and a coat with red inside. He had a sword and a lean face with blue eyes that smiled. I wanted to be a soldier. After he saw ma, he came back lots. But ma had a talk with him, and he didn't come back.

It was a long time until ma talked about Jode Logan again. I must have been 12 and big for my age.

"One time," she said, "he was going up the Oregon trail to do some winter trapping when he saw a bunch of Indians who had a white woman captive. He followed them. Come night, he sneaked in, found where she was tied and got her on a horse, and rode hard after the wagon train.

"The Indians were on his tracks. They caught him close to noon. He hid the girl in the brush and turned on them. They was strung out some. He got three before he was surrounded. He got two more in the fight. Then an arrow went half through his arm. He couldn't load his gun. Know what he did? He walked right out of the bushes, making the peace sign grinning. He said, 'Howdy, brothers.'

"The chief of this band was a hatchet-faced Indian called Mad Fighter. He was ugly most of the time. He grunted, 'Prepare to die.'

"This Jode Logan throwed back his head and laughed. 'Die!' he yells, 'Die? Why you lump of red clay, I'll fight you for the girl.'

"The chief couldn't hardly get out of it, his braves were grinning. It looked easy. So he spilled off his horse, fighting to kill with his bare hands and count two coups. Jode doubled up his arm and let the Indian run into it. That pushed the arrow through and fixed it so he could jerk it out. A second later he had it stuck in Mad Fighter's ribs. He was laughing. 'My brother,' he laughed, 'this looks tough for you. I hear the Happy Hunting Grounds are short of game right now. How about it? Want I should split your liver, or will you pow wow a little?'

"'Pow-wow,' agreed Mad Fighter.

"'Gimme the girl, a couple of horses, and a half-hour start,' bargained this Jode Logan . . ."

"Did he get away?" I wanted to know.

"Of course," said ma. "He always got away. That's how . . . you better get to bed." Then she smiled. "Yes," she said. "Of course he got away. He didn't like being tied up. He was nobody's man. Always will be, I guess. . . . now get to bed Gramp's trading for you a gun Likely be here tomorrow."

I was all excited about the gun. I didn't sleep much, but I wasn't tired when the freight wagon came in. Gramp got the gun out for me right away and showed me how to load it with the new brass cartridges. I run down the creek to find something to shoot.

I was standing on one bank, looking about, when out of the brush on the other side rode a man. He was dressed fit to kill in fringed buckskins. He had two guns, and he yelled at me, "What's this dog-gone road doing here? Come on over, bub, and tell me the news."

I said, "It ain't no farther from you to me, than from me to you. You can't order—"

He let out a whoop, jumped from his horse across the creek, and came thundering down on me, laughing. I dodged, but not quick enough. He grabbed me by the collar, the seat of the pants, and slammed me across the saddle like a sack of meal. "Young Pup," he yells, "I'll teach you manners."

"YOU'RE MINE, I GOT YOU"

My hat jerked off. I was fighting mad and trying to get to him. All at once he throwed me around facing him. "Who's your ma?" he asked, giving me a shake. He clamped down on my arms, and I yelled, "Sue Sheldon, dang you! Sue Sheldon. Lemme go!"

He held me tighter. "Well, we'll ride right over and see her. Direct me, son."

I motioned him toward the store. He grinned down at me. "Good stuff in you, feller. You never dropped your gun."

He had me in front of him now. Ma ran out. She couldn't see him plain because I was almost big as he was. She ran toward us, her face working. "How'd it happen?" she cried, thinking I was wounded or something. Then she stopped with her mouth open. "Jode! Jode?" she gasped, wondering like, "Jode." And her hands clawed at his saddle to keep her from falling.

He tumbled off, and had her in his arms in a split second. "You're a mighty secretive woman, Sue," he said, his voice soft and yet somehow blaming. "A mighty secretive woman. A man's got a right to know such things. The minute I seen that red head, I knew."

Mother was hanging on to him. "You came," she whispered. "You came, but I thought you was nobody's man. That's what you said when you went away."

My pa—I knew it was him now, for looking at his face was like looking into a pool, and he'd taken off his hat when mother came into his arms—threw back his head and bellered, his eyes half shut, but shining down on her. "Sure!" he yelled. "Sure! That's me. Nobody's man. But this boy's mine. You're mine. That's different. You ain't got me. I got you."

He sobered quickly. He gathered her close. "See? And besides, a man outgrows ideas. I seen all the danged country I want."

Shots Fell Two Police Foiling Store Break

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., Feb. 16 (INS) — Two unidentified men caught attempting to break into a store shot two policemen. One of the officers, Wiley Brister, was critically wounded when a bullet pierced his chest. His partner, Cliff Watts, was shot in both legs. The unidentified gunmen opened fire as the officers stepped from their automobile.

Health Authorities Warn

YOU'RE GOING TO CATCH Another COLD!

Most people get two colds a year—and right now is the worst time of the year.

Millions of colds lurk in dirty melting snowbanks

Avoid misery of colds, danger of secondary infection, loss of time and extra expenses.

Guard Your Health

1. Dress warmly in cold weather
2. Don't get chilled or wet
3. Get plenty of fresh air, exercise and rest
4. Eat wholesome, nutritious food
5. Avoid those who have colds
6. Help build resistance to colds and coughs due to colds. Right now—and for the rest of the winter — take Scott's Emulsion . . . high energy Tonic. Rich in natural Vitamins A and D. All drugstores.

special notice: Scott's Emulsion is a "gold mine" of natural A&D Vitamins and energy building oils that help you build real stamina and resistance to colds, and coughs due to colds, if you are low in such vitamins. It helps ward off colds, helps you get rid of them faster! Scott's is easy to take—it's four times easier to digest than plain cod liver oil!

my mother-in-law, Mrs. William A. Moran. We left there about 1 a. m. and when we reached our house in a taxi, two policemen were waiting to arrest me."

Among those who shuddered at at the brutal murder of Beatrice Blanchard was the Peabody woman whom Reddy had vented a violent temper six months ago. She is Mrs. Emily Paes Candido, 35, of Tremont st.

"It happened last Labor Day," she said. "I was sitting on our front porch with my husband, Antonio. Reddy passed the house. Our dog barked at him. After a while he returned with two other young men in a car. Reddy got out and came in the gate, saying he would 'get' the dog.

"My husband told me to go in an call the police. But then Reddy attacked him, and when I protested Reddy slugged me with a stick, knocking me unconscious. Then he ran. The blow was across my right temple, over the eye. At the hospital they had to use eight stitches to close it.

"When Reddy disappeared in the car, my husband chased it and got the registration number, so police later arrested him. He has been under court order to pay the probation officer $15 a week for my medical bills."

Police Chief James F. Murphy of Peabody filled out the story. He said Reddy appeared at the Salem police station next and asked to be held for "drunkenness," giving police a bogus name. Reddy told officers he had been drinking hard and knew they would be looking for him because he had "insulted a woman" in Peabody, near the Salem line.

Salem authorities notified Peabody police, who picked him up. Antonio Candido identified him as his wife's assailant. Reddy was found guilty of assault and battery, placed on probation for a year and ordered to make restitution of $1500.

That was his only court record up to the arraignment today as the alleged killer of Beatrice Blanchard, Chief Murphy stated.

Beatrice was the daughter of a divorced couple, Frank Blanchard, 42, of Appleton st., South End, a cook, and Mrs. Frank Berube, with whom the girl lived in Mason st.

Mrs. Berube related that her daughter received a phone call at the Oppenheim house from "Larry," telling her he intended to visit her and that she telephoned her mother:

"Larry is coming over here, mother. I'm frightened. What shall I do?"

The girl had told her family never to let Reddy know where she had gone if he called while she was out, but his phone call to the home was taken by Beatrice's brother, Norman, 13, who forgot her warning.

VICTIM WARNED

Mrs. Berube said she told the girl:

"Lock the door and don't let him in."

Detectives said the front door was not forced, indicating Beatrice made the fatal mistake of letting Reddy come in.

A stepsister of Beatrices', Mrs Louis Lajoie of Mason st., said the girl met Reddy last summer.

"She had several dates with him, but when he became serious and wanted to marry er she dropped him like a hot cake. She said she was too young to get married and wanted to finish her schooling."

Beatrice was a senior at St James' Parochial High School and had ambitions to continue her education and become a secretary.

Beatrice broke up with Reddy five months ago, and a month later he married one of her close friends, June Moran, a neighbor in Mason st. Mutual friends called it a spite marriage.

VISITED BY BRIDE

The bride, a graduate of Salem High School and Burdett Business College, visited Reddy for an hour at the police station before going into seclusion.

Her father, an electrician and former head of the Mack Park Playground Associates, a group that helps youngsters, said he was willing to speak a good word for Reddy.

"He was a good boy as far as I know. There was nothing mean about him. This is a terrible shock."

Reddy had to be awakened for his evening meal of two cheeseburger sandwiches and coffee. Earlier, he covered his face and shouted at news photographers:

"Give me $100 and I will pose."

In his yearbook with the graduating class at Salem High School in 1944 he wrote, "I have no worries."

DESCRIBED SCENE

The slaying was described by Salem Police Lt. William O'Neil as being "as brutal a murder as I have ever seen—and I worked on the Frances Cochrane case in Lynn. This was awful. There was so much blood it leaked into the cellar."

Easter Fashion Parade

Maurice Rentner's 'Little Rebel' Suit

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

FASHION FEMININITY will reach its peak mood this season. This is the fashion year in which every woman will be THE ONE . . . and the one who isn't will be untrue to her inalienable right . . . to say nothing of being left by the wayside, fashion-wise.

Easter, 1948, will eclipse recent decades as the most extravagant excursion into softer, prettier, romantic fashions reflected in everything from clothes through millinery and accessories. And how will YOU look as you walk down the avenue . . . any avenue or Main street in your own home town or city on Easter Sunday?

With the picturing today of Maurice Rentner's new and striking daytime "Little Rebel" suit in gray wool which not only started a trend in fashion but a trend in hair styling . . . we begin a new EASTER FASHION PARADE series in which some of America's most important designer-personalities will participate!

It is geared to the style tempo of this exciting 1948 fashion year in which "the look" no longer new has leveled off into a specific acceptance of the right and proper way for you and you . . . and even me . . . to look when we Easter present ourselves for all the world to see in the hopes we'll be "the grandest lady."

DESIGNERS' OWN BEST SELECTIONS

So let's temporarily forget the sonnet about the Easter bonnet . . . and concentrate on a daily ode about your Easter suit, or dress, or coat, or ensemble as we permit a big-name designer to step into the fashion spotlight daily to tell and show you how he or she believes YOU should look on that all-important day . . . and for the [illegible] spring season which [illegible] officially opens in [illegible] we've compiled a complete [illegible] gallery of Easter finery . . . to be displayed pictorially and editorially on these pages every day. Selected by the designers themselves as their finest 1948 fashion expression . . . and bearing the Muggleberg stamp of approval as "good fashion" they will be further linked with the designer's own spring credo.

So watch for the portrait of your personality. You'll find the Easter outfit you want and you'll see how it should be worn and with what.

Maurice Rentner, often and [illegible] acclaimed as one of the [illegible] designers, has chosen this "Little Rebel" suit as the favorite for Easter Sunday because it is a becoming sympathetic fashion attuned to the graciousness and serenity of the spirit of the season. Rentner likes daytime femininity . . . a trend he points out, that was completely abandoned during the recent past but which is now assuming greater importance than ever, because it is a necessity of charm and grace in the world which is attempting to adjust to [illegible] peace.

Tomorrow's Designer:
HATTIE CARNEGIE

Rentner Tells Why

THE COSTUME pictured is my idea of the proper look for Easter, 1948, since the proper look is one which brings out a woman's most feminine qualities. Easter Sunday is a day which is traditionally associated with fashion, so much so that every woman feels almost as if she is her own little show-case as she strolls in the Easter Parade.

The "Little Rebel" silhouette, making its debut this spring, is aptly titled, for it indeed rebels against the traditional in suits . . . particularly the jacket, which is closed at the neck and then widens softly to the hem giving a triangular effect. It is trimmed either with a row of buttons on both sides, or buttons on one side and beautifully contrived false buttonholes on the other. The waistline is slim with a subtle back-flare and the skirt is gracefully wide.

An appropriate silhouette for any time and any place on Easter Sunday, it is comfortable and simple enough for street wear; it is soft and dainty enough for the romantic twilight hours; in the evening, its subtle lines give it distinction even in the company of more formal clothes.

Thrifty Lenten Meals for Four

THE FOLLOWING MENUS have been prepared by Good Housekeeping Institute for the Lenten season:

FEBRUARY 17, TUESDAY

BREAKFAST

Cooked Prunes With Orange Sections
Combination of Two Ready-to-Serve Cereals With Milk
Toast Butter or Fortified Margarine
Milk (Children) Coffee (Adults)

LUNCHEON

Bowls of Corn Chowder
Toasted Peanut Butter and Minced Celery Sandwiches
(Brush outside of sandwiches with salad oil. Then toast in broiler oven)
Apples
Milk (Children) Tea (Adults)

DINNER

Scalloped Hash
(Made with Sunday's Leftover Pot Roast)
Mashed Turnips String Beans
(Fold in a little grated cheese)
Pickle Relish Crisp Rolls
Butter or Fortified Margarine
Tapioca Cream with Peach Sauce
(Use small jar strained baby food peaches for Sauce)
Milk (Children)
Coffee (Adults)

CORN CHOWDER

½ lb. salt pork
1 sliced, peeled, large onion
1½ lbs. diced, pared, white potatoes (3 cups)
2 cups boiling water
1 12-oz. can whole-grain corn (1 2-3 cups)
2 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
¾ tsp. curry powder (optional)
1 qt. milk
Paprika
Crackers

Cut salt pork into ½-inch cubes; place in large kettle. Cook, stirring occasionally, until brown and crisp. Remove, keep warm. Add onion to hot salt pork fat and cook, stirring occasionally, until tender. Add potatoes and boiling water. Cover; simmer until potatoes are tender. Add corn, seasonings, milk and crisp pork bits. Heat well over low heat. Serve sprinkled with paprika. Pass crackers. Makes 6 servings.

Note—If more potatoes are desired, use 2 lbs. or 4 cups, diced. Two tbsp. butter or fortified margarine may replace salt pork.

SCALLOPED HASH

2 cups diced leftover cooked pot roast
2 cups diced, cooked white or sweet potatoes
2 tbsp. minced onion
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
1 beef-bouillon cube
1 cup hot water or leftover vegetable water

Combine first 7 ingredients. Then add bouillon cube, which has been dissolved in hot water. Pour into greased 1½ qt. casserole; then bake in moderate oven of 350 degrees F. for 1 hr. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"EVEN FISH is expensive," stormed the Chef as he came in from market. "Today the best buy I could get was fillet of haddock. How much do you think is enough for a family of four?"

"That depends on how it's cooked," I laughed. "If it's fried or broiled, a pound and a half will be needed."

JUST ONE POUND

"But I have bought just one pound of fillet, to keep inside the budget, so I think it will have to be filled out to make it go round for a family of four. I could cut it in four pieces, and bake, smothered with onions, tomatoes and other vegetables, very good. Or I could make the celebrated fish balls of Denmark from the raw fish; or perhaps a nice fish loaf with plenty of creamed peas for the sauce. Or we could make up your famous fish chowder of New England."

All good suggestions, Chef. But I have a new idea—one that will make a pound fillet of haddock do for two meals."

"You mean a fish escallop with many vegetables, or perhaps the fish and potatoes creamed together?"

"These are all very good," I answered, "but my idea is something different. It's fish chili."

"You mean combined with the chili powder and the beans, like you make the chili con carne?"

"Exactly. And a one-pound fillet will be more than ample for a family of four, not only to satisfy appetites, but to provide the right nutrition. For fish, like meat, is a first quality protein food, easily digested and fine for building muscle and repairing tissues. When combined in chili with the beans which are a secondary protein and meat alternate, you have an ample quantity of steaming savory food, enough to satisfy even a very hungry family.

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Cream of Mixed Vegetable Soup
Toast
Fish Chili Parsleyed Potatoes
Quick Cabbage Pickles
Lemon Sponge Pie
Coffee or Tea Milk (Children)

All Measurements Are Level
Recipes Serve Four

CREAM OF MIXED VEGETABLE SOUP

This may be made from almost any combination of raw vegetables, for instance: Put 1 peeled medium-sized parsnip, 2 peeled, small, white turnips, 1 peeled, medium-sized carrot, 4 stalks celery and 1 slice onion through a food chopper. Place in a saucepan. Add 1½ c. boiling water, and 1 tbsp. butter or margarine. Cover and steam-boil until tender, about 20 min.

Meantime, scald 1 qt. fluid milk or 1 tall can evaporated milk and 2 c. boiling water. Add to the cooked vegetables. Season with ½ tsp. salt and ⅛ tsp. pepper; let stand for 10 min. to season. If a thickened soup is desired, add 3 tbsp. flour, blended smooth, in ¼ c. top cream and slow-boil 2 min.

FISH CHILI

Cover 1 lb. red kidney beans with boiling water and soak 50 min. Then add 1½ tsp. salt. Cover and boil 1 hr. Add 1 c. white rice and cook the beans and rice together until almost tender, about 20 min. Meantime slice 2 peeled onions and 2 seeded sweet green peppers. Add 1 section garlic cut in bits, and saute in 1 tbsp. vegetable oil or margarine until the vegetables are tender. Stir into the bean and rice mixture. Then add 1½ tbsp. chili powder, ½ tsp. pepper, and 1 can tomato paste mixed with an equal amount of water. Cook 10 min. Last, add 1 lb. fillets of raw fish, any kind, cut in ½ in. dice. Simmer 20 min. Serve very hot.

LEMON SPONGE PIE

Line a pie plate with pastry, bringing it over the edge of the plate and pressing it down with a fork to hold in position. Prick it in 4 places. Bake 6 min. in hot oven, 400 F. Then remove and put in the filling. This is made as follows: Separate 2 eggs. To the yolks add the juice and rind of 1 lemon, 2 tbsp. flour, ½ tsp. salt, 1 scant cup granulated sugar and 1 tbsp. butter or margarine. Mix thoroughly and add 1 c. cold milk. Beat the egg whites light; fold in and pour into the pie-crust shell.

Bake at once in a moderate oven, 375 F. about 30 min. When done, a knife inserted in the center of the pie comes out clean. Serve cold.

TRICK OF THE CHEF

For a fine flavoring for fruit or cereal pudding, or for sprinkling over the cake batter for a nice topping, grate lemon rind. Add an equal quantity of sugar. Mix and keep in glass jar for use as needed.

Divorce Plan Unwise

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX
I am 21 and have been married for 11 months. I am going to have a baby in April and, since I got pregnant, my husband runs around all the time.

He never gives me any money unless I ask him, and then he wants to know what I want with it. He hasn't bought me any clothes, or even shoes, since we've been married.

What grounds would I have for getting a divorce? I love him very much and he seems to love me. All my friends say that it isn't my fault he runs around.

"AN UNHAPPY WIFE"

Dear "Unhappy Wife":

I am sure your friends are right. Unfortunately, there are many husbands who, when their wives become pregnant, are unable to go out with them as they did before and make this an excuse for "running around" as you call it. It is possible that if you have as much patience as possible with this, things may adjust themselves after the baby is born. At any rate, it would seem foolish to talk about getting a divorce at this point.

Hostess' Favorite Recipe

By MARTHA LEE

MRS. AARON RICHMOND of Dean rd., Brookline, whose husband is a concert manager and prominent in musical circles, gave us our choice of three favorites. It was a difficult decision, because each one sounded so good. However, since this Roquefort Cheese Mold seems to be so popular with her guests, we took this recipe.

It is an interesting green color and may be served as an appetizer or as a salad after the meat course. It makes a grand main luncheon dish, too, and for this type of menu she suggests fruit juice or canapes, then the mold filled with fresh fruit or chicken salad, followed by chocolate cake and coffee.

ROQUEFORT CHEESE MOLD

1 pkg. lime gelatin
1 tbsp. vinegar
1 cup boiling water
1 pkg. cream cheese
Piece of Roquefort cheese of equal size
1 cup crushed pineapple, strained
1 cup whipped cream

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water, and add vinegar. Mash the two cheeses to a stiff paste, and add to the mixture while lukewarm. When nearly cool, add the pineapple. Put in a ring mold, and when almost set fold in whipped cream. Chill in the refrigerator. When ready to serve, fill with fresh fruit or chicken salad. Garnish with slices of apple with red skin left on, or watercress. Sometimes I use individual ring molds. And this recipe makes about 6 servings.

SOFT, natural and alerted is the facial expression of lovely Katharine Bard, "Claudia" of the airwaves and one of the leads in "The Hallams," which opens at the Wilbur tomorrow night. You'd never dream that Katharine is the mother of two girls . . . young to be sure . . . but they are children and this Thespian talks about them freely and frankly. You would, too, if your age didn't show either.

Facial Rejuvenation Cream That Defies Birthdays

IF IT WERE POSSIBLE to shut off time at will, we'd never have to worry about graying hair, wrinkles and other telltale signs of aging. But birthdays have a way of creeping up on us faster and faster each year, and so . . . when they begin to show . . . then beauty begins to fade.

But in this age of advanced cosmetic science, we see no reason why any woman should let herself slump beauty-wise. To do so, makes the secret of her age an open book. And what woman wants to admit her age to the world?

Growing old is a matter of gaining wisdom and maturity and experience . . . but it needn't mean withering up. Moreover, a wrinkled and otherwise neglected looking face can never be considered beautiful. Any woman who allows her face to become time-worn is cheating herself of the right to be beautiful, every woman's inalienable right.

When you find your complexion is beginning to look dry and old and wrinkled, it means that the skin craves a deep emollient . . . not with just any cream, but with a special ingredient cream that has the potential to keep the skin active . . . to give you that wide-awake, young look.

The one we have in mind is a compound of ingredients which, aid in keeping skin clear and radiant . . . giving it the appearance of being moist rather than dry. Use it as a night cream and it will work while you sleep. You'll love the freshness it imparts to the skin. Also it eliminates the use of a powder foundation during the day.

H. M.

For the name of this facial rejuvenation cream, which defies birthdays, phone Beauty Dept., Liberty 2-4000, any day except Sunday, or write to Ruth Muggleobee, care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mason Lacks Hit in 'The Upturned Glass'

By PEGGY DOYLE

The title to the contrary notwithstanding, "The Upturned Glass," the James Mason-starring British import now showing on the Exeter Street Theater screen, has no lost week-end connotation.

Man's desire for experience may be likened to the contents of a glass, is the screen play's theme. For most mortals the glass is sturdy and hard to break but for doctors it is so thin it might better be left upturned.

From us to you, "Doctor" Mason had better have left his experiments with personal theories of justice outside of the operating-room. And we mean this double, for Mason, that British cinematic stinker you love to hate, has been shorted in a soap-opera script that is awkward to an embarrasing degree.

Cast as a London surgeon who is having an affair with a married patient, he develops a brooding revenge-seeking complex when she dies under suspicious circumstances. Suspecting a mean sister-in-law, he woos her, arranges a fortnight's absence to go with her to the dead woman's now deserted country house.

There he tells her that he plans to do her in. There is a scuffle and she dies in the same manner as his patient-sweetheart, the only difference being that she meets death at Mason's hands.

As a consequence of a subsequent brain operation, the physician is discovered to be a murderer and a paranoic. He commits suicide before sentence is passed.

Rosamund John plays the murdered patient, and Pamela Kellino (Mrs. Mason) the innocently involved sister-in-law. Mason is good but not good enough for the slow-motion melodramatics of "The Upturned Glass."

Tomorrow Night

WILBUR — "THE HALLAMS." Rose Franken's new play about the same Hallam family dominating her "Another Language" but not a sequel of that former Broadway success. Impersonating the play's three generations are Ethel Griffies, Mildred Dunnock, Royal Beal, June Walker, Mildred Wall, Alan Baxter, Matt Briggs, Frank M. Thomas, John McKee, Dean Norton and Katharine Bard. Produced by William Brown Meloney; staged by Miss Franken; settings by Raymond Sovey.

PLYMOUTH — "SHYLOCK AND HIS DAUGHTER," with Edward A. Relkin presenting Maurice Schwartz and his Yiddish Art Theater in the drama by the Palestinian author, Ari Ibn-Zahav, for a five-day engagement. In a reversal of the Shakespeare treatment, Shylock is presented as a God-fearing, persecuted Jew. Supporting players include Dinah Halpern, Isadore Casher, Muni Serebrov, Charlotte Goldstein, Gustave Berger, Anatole Winogradov and others.

Book That Can't Be Published: Dr. Eddie's Tale

Austen Lake

By AUSTEN LAKE

FAREWELL, DR. EDDIE! Now we'll never write that book and Life's literature will remain a little duller for a story which must forever stay untold. We didn't miss by much, Eddie! But we missed!

Last Tuesday my telephone tinkled and a spry, airedale's voice at the other end said, "This is Eddie," as though I could mistake the crisp yipp of Dr. Edward J. O'Brien, Jr., the surgeon with whom I used to team when we wore freshly laundered linens of football officials. And he said, "I want you to help me write my sport memories. I've seen the best of 'em come and go for forty years. Let's get it in print before it's too late."

Too late! Too late! Did Dr. Eddie hear faint, premonitory whispers? Did he sense his sable shadow? So he had said, "I'm about the last of the real Old-Timers and refereed the Big Parade—the Jim Thorpes, Ted Coys, Walter Camps, P. D. Haughtons. I'll tell the story, you put it in words."

The Untold Saga

SO I SAID OKAY AND made an appointment for the coming Wednesday eve. "We'll find a quiet spot and a filet and something to inspire and muse," he'd said, "then we'll whip out the first chapter. It'll roll easy from there . . . He had a notion for a title, like, "The Doc Looks at Football." No! Too much like a medical treatise. Maybe "A Surgeon Blows the Whistle." No! Sounds like a police station sawbones! Well, we'd hit something.

But now the little, terminating word, "Explicit" has closed the book before it is written and the final chapter precedes the introduction. Too late! For Eddie has carried his unborn manuscript into that yonder, leaving behind only unedited memories. Too late!

And Dr. Eddie had said a curously relevant thing. "Drop by the office Wednesday afternoon," he'd said. "Haven't given you an overhaul for some time. Heart's an unpredictable machine. I'll listen to your murmurs." It was required before a football season. I hadn't bothered since.

Strange! A doctor rarely thinks [illegible] owed Eddie's accuracy.

Blackhawks Constitute Main Threat for Bruins

By BILL GRIMES

During the coming fortnight, the Bruins, with the exceptions of Milt Schmidt and Trainer Win Green, will be conspicuous only by their absence.

With Coach "Dit" Clapper in charge, the Bruins depart today for Chicago, which will be their first and also the fifth and final port of call on an all important swing around the NHL circuit.

But, due to the thrilling 3 to 1 victory they chalked up over the Red Wings last night, the Bruins left behind something for the fans to talk about until they return on March 2.

Although three weeks had elapsed since they won a game at the Garden, the Bruins couldn't have selected a more opportune time to break into the win column. In fact, the NHL standings underwent a truly drastic shake up after last night's results were tabulated.

The Maple Leafs moved into a tie for first place with the Red Wings, 25 playing their 53th tie of the season in New York. But, the Rangers dropped a point nearer to the Bruins when they added the points with Toronto.

But, the biggest jump over the week-end was made by the Bruins by virtue of a tie with Rangers, who now have engaged in a dozen 10-10 ties in games and a victory over Detroit.

Going into Saturday's game, the Bruins were just two points out of fourth at Canadiens. But, the Canucks had a tough week-end. They were beaten in Toronto Saturday and then nosed out by the Hawks last night in Chicago.

It looks like Rangers are trying to make the play-off in the games. In their last six starts they have played two ties and suffered one defeat. When a club acquires such a mania to fade, it usually is on the skids. The Blue Shirts hold a two game lead over the Bruins who are below, fortunately, will make their next five starts on the road. And if they display as much fight and determination as they did last night, the Rossmen are a good bet to overtake the Rangers.

But for the next month the club to watch is the Blackhawks. They appear to have found themselves under Charlie Conacher. They have four wins and tied one since the first of the month and really are serious contenders for the play-offs. We must wait, however, to see if it will be the Bruins or Rangers who will step aside so that the Windy City club may get into the big money series.

RESULTS LAST NIGHT

Toronto 4, New York 4.
Chicago 2, Montreal 1.
BOSTON 3, Detroit 1.

BRUIN PICK UPS

Frankie Brimsek was terrific last night. He was credited with 41 saves and many of them were out of this world. In the second period Jimmy McFadden and then Ted Lindsay broke out of the pack at the opposite end of the Garden and had nobody to beat but "Brimmy." They are two of the league's leading goal getters but neither of them were able to score.

The lone Detroit tally was a screened shot from the blue line by Leo Reise, Jr. There were so many players milling around in front of the Bruins' goalie that he didn't have a chance in a million to even see, let alone stop, the puck.

The Bruins have been doing very well with the Red Wings since the first of the year. Early in the season, they were "ducks of the pond" for the Motor City outfit but now they've won three and tied one in five starts. And that's exceptionally fine going against one of the best all-time NHL clubs.

The Toronto Maple Leafs overcame a two-goal deficit last night and got a draw with Rangers in New York, which coupled with the Bruins victory over Detroit, moved the Queen City club into a first place tie with Coach Tommy Ivans' boys.

We cannot recall a major league goalie who is as consistently roughed up as Frankie Brimsek. He takes a heavy pummeling in every game and it's a miracle that he hasn't been seriously injured.

Clare Martin crashed into the goal upright, after chasing Jimmy McFadden the length of the ice in the second period. He received a painful "charlie horse" which may sideline him for the Hawks game in Chicago Wednesday night.

During the last 45 seconds of the game, Referee King Clancy sent first Pat Egan and Gordie Howe and then Murray Henderson and Bill Quackenbush to the bastille for high-sticking.

Paul Ronty and Pat Egan starred along with Brimsek. They were tireless workers and put on a show which thrilled every one in the Garden. Pat is by far the most colorful Bruin and when he's rolling is really worth watching. Paul Ronty will be an NHL star as soon as he matures.

At 18:58, the Red Wings put on a new play. They had Harry Lumley, their goalie, up at the Boston blue line. When the Bruins got the draw, on the face off, Lumley raced back down the ice and rode Jimmy Peters, the puck carrier, into the end boards.

Fusari 10-8 Favorite Over Priest

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

Charlie Fusari, will rule a 10-8 favorite in the betting for tonight's ten-rounder with "Red" Priest of Cambridge at the Boston Garden. The boys who are supposed to know the answers may change their viewpoint before 10 p. m., ring time, tonight, when they realize that Priest is in the best physical shape since before the Reuben Shank fight at the New York Garden 13 months ago.

Tonight's fight should be a good one. Tickets have been going well and it is expected that the net will go about $30,500. If it does it will mean the second straight Callahan A. C. production that has hit this financial high peak.

Johnny Rogers, one of the greatest of American fight managers, is in town from California to guide Berry Wright against Jimmy Sauer at Salem tomorrow night. Jimmie has spent the past few days watching Priest train at the Garden gym.

"He's come a long way for a guy who was supposed to take up chicken farming a year ago," said Rogers, as he watched Priest breeze through a 60-minute training stint. "I think Red has finally gotten the thought into his head that he's just as good as he wants to be. Matty Norton has helped him a lot mentally."

"Red was a giant when he beat Tommy Sullivan for the first time. Then he went over to N. Y. to fight Shank who's a spoiler, anyway. I think Red started going back then. That last fight he had with Mead," continued Rogers, "was just what the doctor ordered. I think he'll win."

Of course Fusari can't be treated lightly just because the Boston man has shown such tremendous improvement. Rip Valenti says that the New York fans don't think so much of Fusari, but a record stands over all things.

CHARLIE FUSARI
10-8 Choice Over Red Priest

Charlie has knocked out 39 of his last 53 opponents. And he's only been beaten a couple of times, then by ordinary fighters.

This fight will be a nice hatful of brand new lettuce to the fighters. The show will net about $30,500. Of that amount the fighters will grab 27½ per cent each. Mathematics will show that the boys will end up with roughly $8250 of the anticipated net.

The "under card" shows promise and may materialize enough to send the fans into the main bout with a smile. Headline is Jackie Wilson, ex-Quincy butcher boy, who fights six rounds with Frankie Foran, Newark. Jackie has five straight wins since turning pro. He's managed by George Freeman, who is bringing him along easily. It's a six rounder.

Lennie Labrutta, Fusari's sparring partner, meets Joe Baiduc, Cambridge, in another six, Bobbie Noonan, Newark, will fight Ralph Larro, Lynn, in four. The opener will be Dick Callahan, South End, and Jose Contreras, Fall River, also four rounds.

MAIN BOUT (10 Rounds)
Al "Red" Priest, Cambridge, vs Charlie Fusari, Irvington, N. J.

SEMI-FINAL (6 Rounds)
Jackie Wilson, Quincy, vs Frankie Foran, Newark, N. J.

OTHER BOUTS
Dick Callahan, South End, vs Jose Contreras, Fall River (4)
Tommy Wade, Randolph, vs Bob Murray, South End (4)
Tony Baiduc, Cambridge, vs Lennie Labrutta, Newark, N. J. (4)
Bobby Noonan, Newark, N. J. vs Johnny Lard, Lynn (4)

Hettinger Okayed Own Suspension

"What do you think now, George?" I asked.

"I am going fishing for 10 days," said Hettinger as he grinned.

Jockeys who have come to Suffolk Downs from other tracks have come to me and said, "I wish we had these pictures at all tracks."

Q—Do you think the taking of pictures has reduced the amount of rough riding and cutting off of horses?

A—(Almy) I most certainly do. By seeing the pictures each morning the jockeys realize everything they do is shown up clearly in the pictures. This makes them more careful as they know they will be punished for infractions of the rules. By reducing rough and other illegal riding, the public gets a better run for its money, while the lives of jockeys are not placed in unnecessary danger.

Q—What was the story behind the disqualification of Highland Stable's Laboulaye on April 26, 1947, in the running of the $10,000 Governor's Handicap and giving first place to Mr. Chairman?

Picture Showed Fouling of Mr. Chairman

A—(Almy) Jockey C. Rogers was up on Laboulaye, while Jockey C. Keene was on Mr. Chairman. Mr. Chairman was on the outside as he headed down the stretch after making the final turn for home. Laboulaye was inside of Mr. Chairman and started to drift out. Jockey C. Rogers is a left-handed whipper, and he kept whipping his mount even after he started to run out. As Rogers did this with his left hand, Laboulaye continued to run out. When Laboulaye won by a neck, Jockey Keene, who was second on Mr. Chairman, claimed foul.

The stewards called for the pictures of the race, and they clearly showed Mr. Chairman being fouled by Laboulaye as the latter was being whipped by the left-handed C. Rogers. Spangled Game was also interfered with, and in the final placing of the horses Mr. Chairman was first, Spangled Game second and Laboulaye third. Mr. Chairman paid $25.00 while Laboulaye had been 20 to 1 in the betting.

(In tomorrow's Boston American Jack Conway will have an article in which one of his questions to Judge Pappas will be, "What are you going to do about crooked bookmakers who would like to "fix" races at Suffolk Downs?)

WARNER VS. BROWN

Heyward Warner, elongated middleweight from Boston, meets highly-rated Georgie Brown, of New York, in the 10-round main bout Friday night, in Mechanics Hall, Worcester.

Buckley Asks Ban On Ring Broadcast

Seeking to halt a proposed blow-by-blow broadcast of the "Red" Priest-Charlie Fusari bout from Boston Garden this evening, John Buckley, manager of Priest, and the boxer himself, today asked Superior Court Judge Frank J. Murray to issue an injunction against the Callahan A. C. promoters of the fight, and Radio Station WLAW of Lawrence.

Judge Murray issued an order for the representatives of the promoters and the radio station to appear in court at 2 p. m. today to show cause why the injunction should not be issued.

In the bill of complaint, Priest alleges that when he signed his contract for the fight he did not know of a contract between the promoter and the station for the broadcast. He further claims that such a broadcast would result in "unjust enrichment" of the promoters and the radio station.

32 Night Games Carded for Tribe

The game schedule for the Boston Braves, released today, lists 32 night contests at Braves Field this season, three more than last year.

The schedule calls for 616 ball games in the National League of which 163 will be played after dark. This is 16 more night games than last year.

The Braves open their season in Philadelphia on April 20. Their initial home game will be against the Giants on April 23. First home night game is with the Pittsburgh Pirates on May 18.

Holy Cross and Eagles In Hoop Game at Arena

By FRED HOEY

NCAA tournament-bound Holy Cross collides with its old rival, Boston College, in the feature game of the twin bill at the Boston Arena tomorrow night. In the other game Boston University meets William and Mary.

The sensational and thrilling play of the Holy Cross wizards has captured the fancy of the local sport fans. The seating capacity at the Arena, only 7000 as compared with the Garden's 13,909, will be fully taxed.

With all the magic and flossy stuff Holy Cross players display every man on Doggie Julian's outfit is not holding Boston College too cheaply. This basketball is a strange game. The Crusaders looked bad in nosing out Harvard a few weeks ago. It is these let downs that send coaches like Julian to the aspirin bottle.

A Holy Cross team in its top form should take BC. The Crusaders have their usual 10 good operators against the Eagles five man team. Coach McLellan, has some promising looking second stringers but they are hardly ripe to battle the finished players Julian puts on the floor.

This HC-BC battle is the first of a home-and-home series. The return game will be played at Worcester, Feb. 28.

Last year BU took the measure of William & Mary, 62-45.

The Terriers realize they are in for a busy evening at the Arena in this opening game of the twin bill.

Losing three of its games by a total of four points William & Mary is much stronger than its record indicates. Coach Barney Wilson is working with seven veterans from last season.

The Southerners have a beanpole center in Chet Ciermek. Recently this heavy scorer took scoring honors in the Southern Conference.

This is a tough week for BU. After going through the rigors of the W. & M. game, Ross Peterson's boys will await Friday's clash with Holy Cross at the Arena. A two-game assignment that really looks very tough.

Ski Patrol System Needs Monetary Aid

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

One of America's greatest skiing organization is the National Ski Patrol System, formed in 1938, which has rendered aid to thousands of accident cases, with every bit of the work done voluntarily. And now, according to word from Chairman Minot Dole, the NSPS may be forced to go out of business due to lack of funds!

This is a sad situation, indeed: "A minimum budget of $51,000 per year is needed to carry on the work of preventing accidents and caring for those who are injured," says Mr. Dole. "The maximum ever contributed in one season is slightly under $15,000, less than a third of the amount required. This sum cares only for expenses that are absolutely vital, since all administrative work is performed by volunteers—and all but a few patrols are voluntary."

If this outfit has to cease operations, all coordination of patrol growth and activities will end; standards of training and technique will deteriorate; skiing on National Forest and Park lands will be endangered; accident prevention methods will cease on a national scale; and continuity of winter activities with the War Department will terminate.

The NSPS, by the way, furnished some 12,000 qualified skiers and mountaineers for the War Dept., when the Mountain Troops were being organized.

Therefore, we urge all skiers to send contributions to the National Ski Patrol System, 415 Lexington ave., New York 17, N. Y. . . . An associate membership costs only one dollar; while five dollars pays for a supporting membership . . . The NSPS may help YOU today!

QUICK CHRISTIES: Comes a little warm rain, and city folks chortle with glee that the "skiing season is over!" This is far from true. The thaw took away about eight or ten inches of snow locally, leaving a two-foot base, which may mean skiing will be possible on nearby slopes through March! And we're sorry to report that a professor at a well known university, who is a famed weather prognosticator, predicts 72 inches more snow is yet to fall!

Edward "Red" Fallon, of the Lynn Snow Chasers, with whom we served in the Mountain Troops, writes that he is on a skiing honeymoon with his bride, the former Marie Adrien, of Lynn. The couple are visiting Cannon Mountain, Mt. Mansfield, Big Bromley, Snow Valley, and Hogback Mt.

Rheumatic Pains?

take this sufferer's advice

Mr. I. K., Wilmington, Del.

Advises every one suffering from pains of Rheumatism — Arthritis—Sciatica— to try Rumal

He says, "God Bless You for RUMAL."

Mr. I. K. of Wilmington, Delaware, writes: "For years I have suffered with agonizing pains of Rheumatism. Nothing seemed to help much. Then a friend of mine suggested that I try a preparation called Rumal. I was skeptical but I had nothing to lose so I sent for a jar. I tried it and am happy to say that I got relief from the very first application. It's a godsend to have Rumal in the house for when those awful pains strike. I'm prepared."

I don't care how long you have been suffering the agonies of rheumatic, arthritic, sciatica, neuralgic pains —I want you to try a remedy that is really good.

It must be good, for it has been bringing blessed palliative relief to thousands of sufferers since 1919—over 28 years.

And the best part is that you don't risk one penny in trying Rumal —you can't lose—only gain by doing it.

Rumal is a compound of 8 powerful ingredients widely known to the medical profession as fast pain relievers. You apply Rumal as directed to the painful area. Soon you feel a glowing, soothing warmth as the pains disappear fast.

Tear out this adv. now as a reminder to get a jar of Rumal for $2.00 at one of the Nature Food Centres stores, listed below. Mail orders sent postpaid. Get Rumal now! Guaranteed! If after using 1 jar of Rumal you don't feel that it has helped you, you get your money back.

Durocher Starts With 4-3 Victory

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16 (AP) —Leo Durocher is off to a winning start in his 1948 managerial career.

The Brooklyn Dodger pilot, recently reinstated by Baseball Commr. A. B. (Happy) Chandler after a year's suspension, managed a group of major leaguers to a 4-3 victory over a minor league aggregation in a Sunday game at Wrigley Field.

The contest, a charity benefit, attracted 8000 customers and was featured by Lou Stringer's home run. Stringer recently was purchased by the New York Giants from the Chicago Cubs.

The Durocher crew came through with three runs in the fifth and another in the eighth to nip the minors, headed by Bill Kelly, Los Angeles Angels' mentor.

Valpey to Bring Own Staff

had their brains in there. I'm tickled pink at the choice."

Jim Kenary, quarterback and passing ace: "Hope he can do as well for us as he did for Michigan."

The young coach, who has his own ideas of how this modern football should be played, made a distinct impression on the Harvard athletic committee before whom he appeared last Friday night.

Following the decision, Director Bingham issued the following statement: "After long and careful examination of numerous candidates, I am convinced that Arthur Valpey has a sound background of football and the necessary force and enthusiasm to put over his knowledge to young and eager football players. I have every confidence that he will make Harvard football interesting and successful. I expect that he will report for duty at Harvard on March 1."

Valpey is the youngest of the three candidates that Bingham submitted to the committee for approval. He was born August 5, 1915 in Dayton, Ohio. He was star halfback on the Steele High School team of Dayton where he won honors as an All-State halfback in his senior year. He entered Michigan in 1934 and was shifted to an end position by freshman coach Wally Weber at that time. Starting as a sophomore, he played regular end for Michigan during the seasons of 1935, 1936 and 1937 and received expert instruction from that former All-American end Bennie Oosterbaan.

Graduating in 1938, he accepted a position as high school coach at Ida, Michigan, for one season and then moved to Manchester (Michigan) High School in 1939.

In 1942, Valpey was offered a position as freshman line coach at Michigan and since then he has been a regular member of the Michigan football coaching staff. During the seasons of 1943 and 1944, he handled the freshman and reserve line coaching jobs. In 1945 he was assistant line coach on the varsity staff. During the seasons of 1946 and 1947, he has been varsity end coach and has developed such outstanding ends as Elmer Madar in 1946 and Bob Mann and Leonard Ford, the star ends on last year's championship Michigan eleven.

Valpey married Margaret Schuptrine in 1938 and has two children, Betsy, age 8, and Billy, age 4.

WHEN KIDNEYS Work Too Often

Are you embarrassed and inconvenienced by too frequent elimination duging the day or night? This symptom as well as Smarting Passages, Backache, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains and Swollen Ankles may be due to non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles. In such cases the very first dose of the scientifically compounded medicine called Cystex usually goes to work right now helping you these 3 ways: 1. Helps nature remove irritating excess acids, poisonous wastes and certain germs. 2. This cleansing action helps nature alleviate many pains, aches, soreness and stiffness. 3. Helps reduce frequent night and day calls, thus promoting better sleep.

Paraplegic Basketeers Ask Truman for Help

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16 (AP) —A wheelchair basketball team on paraplegic combat veterans appealed to President Truman today to "come to our rescue" by permitted three Army hospital staff members to accompany them on a cross-country exhibition tour.

The tour, the veterans said in a telegram to the President, faces cancellation unless a doctor, a coach and a trainer from Birmingham Hospital at nearby Van Nuys are authorized to go along.

The veterans said appeals to veterans' Administration officials in Washington for such authorization had been turned down.

The team had planned to compete against other teams in regulation basketball games, played from wheelchairs. The first game is scheduled at Denver next Wednesday, and others during the proposed 14-day airplane tour are scheduled at Kansas City, Chicago, Buffalo, Boston, New York, Washington, Richmond, Cincinnati and Memphis. The tour is sponsored by Los Angeles newspapers and radio stations.

The telegram, signed by eight players, said "the undersigned hospital discharged paraplegic combat veterans who are playing wheelchair basketball under the banner of Birmingham Hospital Chapter of the Paralyzed Veterans' Ass'n Athletis Club, without a single injury or setback traceable to basketball in our two seasons of play, have scheduled a 14-day nonprofit, all-expense - paid tour which faces immediate cancellation unless you come to our rescue.

Overturned in Dorchester—This automobile, operated by Dr. Robert Sullivan, of Alpha rd., Dorchester, lies on its side in Adams st., Dorchester, early today after overturning on the slippery pavement. Dazed, but uninjured, the doctor crawled from the machine. He refused medical treatment offered at the scene. The automobile was badly damaged.

Thaws Out—Using a bucket of boiling water, Fireman Herbert Quigley, of Fall River, thaws out his mittens while battling a garage fire in that city. The ice-covered firefighter discovers that his job is not as warm as he had anticipated. Hoselines and hydrants suffered from ice conditions during the hours-long battle.
